CAB Official Heads Investigation Into Cause of Tragedy

BY CHARLES L. WEST
BOLIVIA, N.C. —(AP)— Three rows of shrouded bodies, victims of 1960's first airliner crash, lay in the Southport High school gymnasium today awaiting identification by relatives and an FBI fingerprint team.

Thirty-four persons were aboard the National Airlines DC8B which apparently disintegrated in the air early yesterday and cast wreckage and bodies over a 20-acre area near this little community 25 miles south of Wilmington. None survived.

Searchers found 32 bodies by nightfall in the plowed fields and the marshy piney woods where the New York to-Miami flight fell.

C. Lester Trotter, an assistant director of the FBI, came from Washington with a 4-man team to help identify the 29 passengers and 5 crew members.

Heads Inquiry
Relatives also began arriving to identify and claim their dead.

Another federal official David L. Thompson of the civil aeronautics board's New York area office, was dispatched to direct the investigation into the cause of the crash.

Working until a late hour yesterday, the FBI agents definitely identified 9 of the 22 bodies.

Brunswick Coroner L. B. Bennett said autopsies would be performed on the pilot, copilot and flight engineer in an effort to determine what caused their deaths.

The plane "apparently disintegrated in the air from an unknown cause," said John L. Morris, a National Airlines vice president. "The plane was in good order and was in the hands of a veteran crew. There was nothing from the pilot prior to the crash that would indicate any malfunction."

"However, the altimeter in the wreckage of the cockpit showed an elevation of 1,500 feet. Instruments indicated the right wing may have been down as if the plane were banking."

It appeared the crew and passengers may have known the plane was in difficulty. A National Airlines spokesman said, "judging from the fact that some of the victims had on life jackets, it can be presumed that the captain had informed the passengers of an emergency situation and was trying to make an emergency landing."

Bus Driver Saves 10 Children From Burning Building

Chicago —(AP)— A Chicago Transit Authority bus driver late yesterday left his vehicle, raced into a burning southside building and carried or led 10 children to safety.

Two other youngsters died—one in the blaze, another at a hospital. Two adults were injured when they leaped from their third floor apartment. Firemen rescued eight other children.

As the firefighters arrived, the bus driver, Fred Wilson, 34, of Gary, Ind., returned to the bus and continued his route.

Wilson said later he made at least eight trips into the blazing 4-story apartment building, carrying out a child or two on each trip and awakening many occupants.

Neenah Foundry Firm Union Strikes; Picket Lines Formed

Talks Fail to Bring Agreement on Major Issues of Security, Wages

Neenah — Pickets took their places around the Neenah Foundry company plant on Winneconne avenue at midnight Wednesday as Local 121 of the International Molders and Foundry Workers union struck the plant. The company said at noon today it is determined to keep operating.

Negotiations broke down at 10:20 p.m. Wednesday as union and management deadlocked on the issues of union security and wages. Negotiations began at 10 a.m. Wednesday and continued throughout the day.

Arvid Anderson, executive secretary of the Wisconsin employment relations board, met with the union and company representatives Wednesday.

Six Sessions
A federal conciliator had met with them at earlier negotiation sessions. Six sessions were held since October in an attempt to reach a new contract succeeding the one which expired Dec. 31.

The union voted last Saturday to go on strike if negotiations failed.

Simpson, GOP Conservative Leader, Succumbs

Washington —(AP)— Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.) for years one of Capitol Hill's leading apostles of conservatism, died today.

Death came at 8:15 a.m. at the Naval Medical center at Bethesda, Md., where Simpson underwent brain surgery Dec. 14. The operation was to determine whether Simpson had a brain tumor. The results never were announced.

Simpson, a member of congress since 1937, had been regarded for years as one of the leading champions in the house of high tariffs and traditional Republican economic policy.

Mass Purge Begun in Red China To Weed Out Enemies of Regime

BY JOHN RODERICK

Tokyo —(AP)— Red China is waging a mass purge of "counter-revolutionaries and undesirable characters who have wormed their way" into the communist party.

An Tzu-wen, onetime confidential secretary to Mao Tse-tung, has confirmed widespread speculation that 27,000 peasant communes and party committees are being overhauled from top to bottom.

An, a member of the ruling communist party central committee, sounded the call for mass action against "right opportunists" and "individualists" in the Peiping Peoples Daily.

Officials Dismissed
A translation of his article in the Dec. 17 issue reached Tokyo today.

An disclosed the purge was planned at a meeting of the central committee last March.

A number of government officials, including Defense Minister Peng Teh-huai, were fired last September. The charges against them were not believed regarded as "right opportunists" for opposing Mao's "great leap forward program," including the revolutionary communes.

An wrote in the Peiping Peoples Daily:

"At the moment a penetrating socialist (communist) education campaign is in progress in the rural areas and communes, and party organizations are being further streamlined in line with this education."

He warned "the undesirable characters will receive due punishment." He mentioned no names nor the type of punishment being meted out. In Red China's mass trials of the 1950s, millions of rich landlords and critics of the regime lost their lives. The latest campaign appears directed at party members.

An declared that political leadership of "a few" branches of the communist party was still "in the hands of landlords, rich peasants, counter-revolutionaries and undesirable characters."

"Efficient cadres must be appointed and the masses fully mobilized to purge the counter-revolutionaries and undesirable characters who

Goldwater Believes U. S. People Want Conservative Chief

Washington —(AP)— Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said today he thinks Vice President Richard M. Nixon will prove himself a "satisfactory conservative" in campaigning.

Goldwater, who heads the Republican senatorial campaign committee, disagreed with some of his GOP senatorial colleagues who say Nixon needs to identify himself as something of a liberal to win the presidency over a Democratic nominee.

Sens. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) and Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) have made such suggestions while denying that Nixon is the choice of the GOP "old guard." Nixon has no current opposition for the Republican nomination.

"I think the majority of the people of the country want a conservative for president," Goldwater said. "That is the impression I get after having visited 43 states in the last few months."

Leaders in Prison Riot To Face Court

Gov. Ribicoff of Connecticut Silent On Outbreak Cause

Wetherfield, Conn. —(AP)— Gov. Abraham Ribicoff today said ringleaders of a riot by more than 400 shouting, stomping inmates at the Connecticut state prison will be prosecuted.

He and other officials said they knew the precise cause of last night's outbreak, but declined to disclose it for the time being.

However, Warden Mark S. Richmond said it "appeared to be a mass retaliation against prison authorities for a variety of things . . ."

He said he could not go into details at this time, but "there has been a tightening of security, and measures to avoid any contraband being brought into the prison."

"We had to curtail further things sent in during Christmas time," he said.

"We had to curtail further things sent in during Christmas time," he said.

Guards Overpowered
Ribicoff met with Richmond and other officials.

Prisoners overpowered two guards, grabbed their keys, and freed the other inmates.

State troopers and prison guards quelled the riot after 24 hours with tear gas and high-pressure water hoses. A fireman and two prisoners were hurt, none seriously.

Voices Hope for Permanent Peace

BY MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

Washington —(AP)— President Eisenhower predicted today that 1960 will be the most prosperous year in America's history. He declared the world is entering a vast new technological age which can "make poverty and human misery obsolete."

He also expressed guarded optimism about better relations with Russia. "We must strive," he said, "to break the calamitous cycle of frustrations and crises which, if unchecked, could spiral into nuclear disaster; the ultimate insanity."

In his annual state of the Union message to congress, the president personally told a joint session of the house and senate the nation is armed with enormous defensive military might which must be meticulously maintained until the Soviet Union agrees to effectively safeguarded disarmament.

Eisenhower predicted no nation ever will risk general war against the United States if this might is maintained. He announced spectacular new advances in precision use of this country's Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile.

The president also rejected criticism that Russia's development of super-trust rocket engines threatens America in the military missile field. The U. S. program in that field "does not suffer from our present lack of very large rocket engines, which

Christmas Celebrated By Russians

Moscow —(AP)— Russian Orthodox worshippers crowded into Moscow churches today to celebrate an event not recognized by their communist government—the birth of Christ.

The Russian church observes Christmas according to the ancient Julian calendar. Christians in the western world follow the Gregorian calendar.

Most of the worshippers were old people. It was just another day of work for most Muscovites.

Huge gaily decorated fir trees still stood with signs proclaiming the new year, remnants of New Year's day celebrations at which Russians exchange gifts and enjoy their big holiday.

Ike Sees Surplus Of $4.2 Billion

Washington —(AP)— President Eisenhower told a cheering congress today his new budget will call for a $4,200,000,000 surplus.

Eisenhower announced in his state of the Union address that the budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 will propose expenditures of $79,600,000,000.

This meant, with his prediction of a surplus, that he anticipated revenues would be about $84 billion.

Eisenhower said he wants the predicted $4,200,000,000 excess of revenues applied as a reduction of the national debt.

The president said that he prefers not to call it just a debt reduction but "a reduction in our children's inherited mortgage."

He added this country is pressing forward with development of engines with tremendous power.

Khrushchev Planning To Make Stop in Burma

Moscow —(AP)— Izvestia indicated today that Premier Nikita Khrushchev will stop in Burma as well as India during his trip to Indonesia next month.

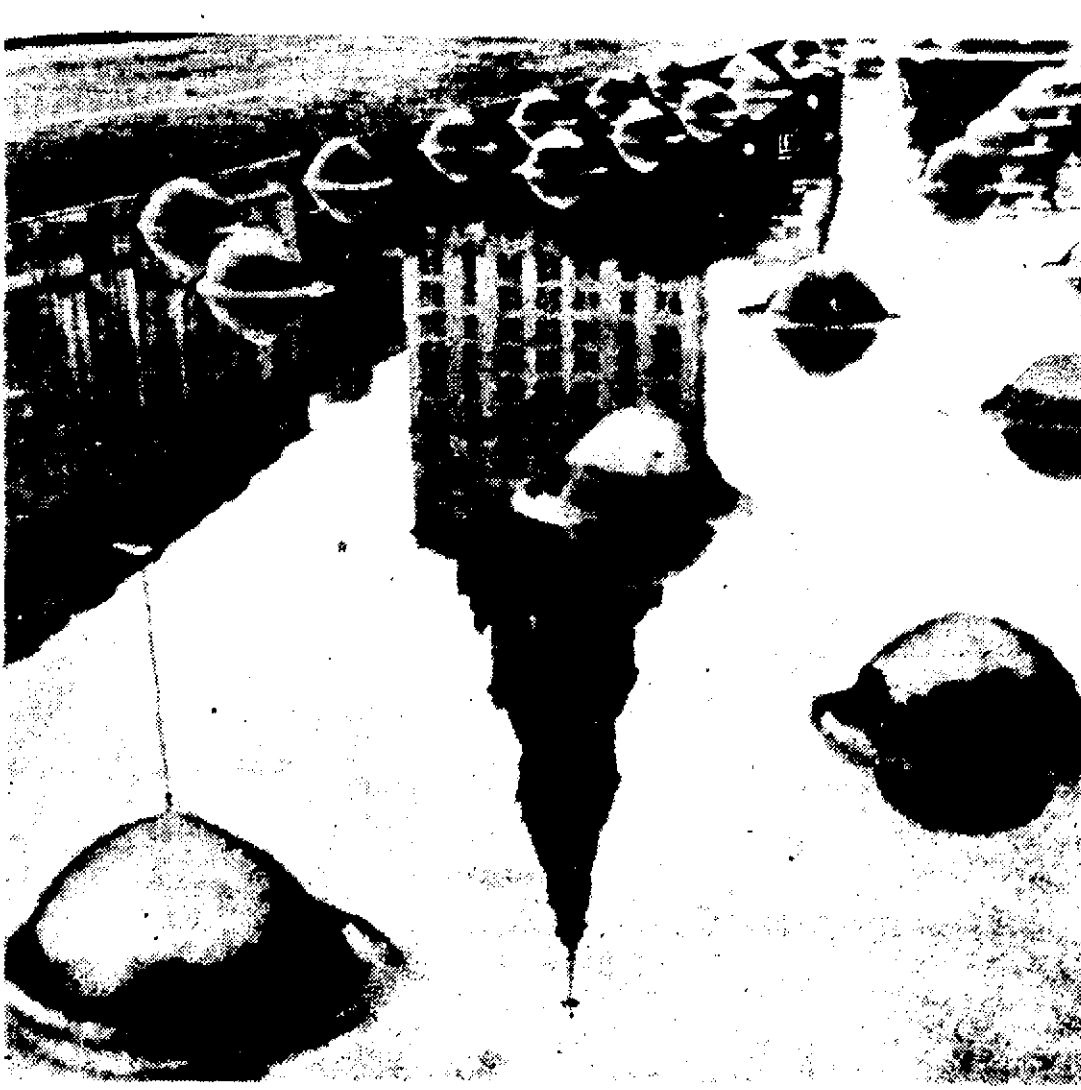

The Soviet government newspaper reported that Khrushchev had been invited to visit by both Prime Minister Nehru and the government of Burma. Although the accounts did not say he accepted, it was assumed that the invitations would not have been extended and publicized unless acceptance had been indicated.

Key Questions Raised by Nationwide Steel Strike

Dispute Over Policies, Inflation, Productivity and Pricing Likely To Continue for Months or Years

Pittsburgh —(U)— The long steel dispute is settled but some of the questions it raised about productivity, inflation and pricing policies may rage on for months—perhaps years. Even in agreement, the United Steelworkers and the industry disagreed whether the new contract's terms are inflationary.

USW President David J. McDonald told the union's 500,000 members in basic steel mills it is "the greatest contract ever." But he said it was not an inflationary agreement.

Roger M. Blough, board chairman of U. S. Steel corporation, said the pact "could hardly be regarded as non-inflationary."

The differences over inflation just about boil down to the question of whether prices of steel should be increased. And that is a question union and management have been disputing for years.

Circle Immediate Blough said his firm, the world's biggest steel producer, did not plan any immediate price increase. Just about everyone interested in steel drew a red circle around the word "immediate."

McDonald and his union long have argued that most of the increases in steel prices were not necessary because of labor costs.

Blough used percentage figures and said labor costs have gone up an average of 8 per cent annually for the past 20 years while steel prices have risen about 54 per cent annually over the same period.

The union takes the opposite view. Before the settlement, McDonald used figures taken from a survey by Secretary of Labor James Mitchell and said:

Cost of Steel "In a period of the last 71 years, all of the hourly wage increases and improvement benefits of production and maintenance employees raised the cost of a ton of steel by only $12."

"But in the same period the price of steel was raised $40 a ton or four times as much."

Which set of figures is correct? Probably both. As for the Mitchell report each side—union and management—used parts of it to back up their points. But the arguments raged on.

Conservation Head Makes Appointments To 3 Committees

Madison —(U)— Arthur R. MacArthur of Janesville, chairman of the Wisconsin Conservation commission, announced Wednesday appointments to three committees serving the commission.

Paul Olson of Madison was named to the Land committee and John Lynch of Gordon was appointed to the Waters committee. Each is a recent appointee to the commission.

Guido Rahr of Manitowoc was named to head the business affairs committee to serve with the chairman.

Methodists Request No Basic Changes in Church Racial System

Elimination of Setup Would Harm Church, Fact Finders Say

Washington —(U)— Methodist fact-finders who made a study of segregation in their church recommended today that no basic changes be made in the church's regional and racial jurisdictional structure.

Elimination of the present jurisdictional setup, they said, "would be harmful to the church, and especially disastrous to Negro Methodists."

The general news service of the church said the report is

Election Will Affect Work Of Congress

Washington —(U)— As the 86th congress convened in its second session, Rep. John W. Byrnes, Green Bay, frankly forecast that the congress would be working in an "environment supercharged with politics" because of the upcoming general election.

"The best thing we can do for our country is to get the major pieces of legislation passed and then get out of Washington," Byrnes declared.

He said one of the biggest issues of the day will be "whether as a government, we can live within our means and protect the value of our currency."

Rep. Melvin R. Laird, Marshfield, a member of the house appropriations subcommittee on defense, said one of the greatest problems confronting his group is to "devote sufficient funds and effort to our defense program while at the same time, maintain a reasonable balance in our domestic economy, already heavily burdened with federal, state and local taxes."

The issue which will overshadow all others in the new congress, Laird believes, is the maintenance of our national security.

"Our domestic economy is just as important to our national security as the number of missiles, aircraft and troops which we possess," he said.

He believes that legislation in the fields of social security, civil rights, and education also will be on the "must" list.

Showman Gives Million Dollar Gift to Israel

Billy Rose Will Sponsor 5-Acre Statuary Garden

New York —(U)— The National Museum of Israel will soon have a 5-acre garden filled with heroic-sized statues by some of the great sculptors of modern times—all courtesy of showman Billy Rose.

Samuel Rubin, president of the American-Israel cultural foundation, announced the million-dollar gift last night at the foundation's annual dinner.

Fifty Items Rose will finance the construction of the sculpture garden in Jerusalem, in which will be displayed more than 50 pieces of sculpture.

Karl Katz, curator and director of the Museum of Israel, has called Rose's collection one of the finest privately owned collections of sculpture in the world. Such greats as Rodin, Maillol, Daumier and Epstein are represented.

Isamu Noguchi, prominent Japanese-American artist, will design and landscape the sculpture garden.

The garden will be on a hilltop in the geographic center of Jerusalem, adjoining the national museum's new building and overlooking the valley of the cross.

Among cablegrams of thanks for Rose's gift was one from David Ben-Gurion, the Israeli prime minister.

Syros P. Skouras, president of 20th Century-Fox pictures, was guest of honor at the dinner.

He was honored as "an outstanding worker in all humanitarian causes and as an American of great heart who has given distinguished service to the cause of international peace and world amity through cultural exchange."

The America-Israel cultural foundation supports some 40 Israeli cultural institutions.

Firemen Chop Man's Body From Milwaukee River

Milwaukee —(U)— Firemen chopped the body of 25-year-old Thomas Sturdevant from the ice of the Milwaukee river Wednesday.

Lorraine Sturdevant, who identified the body as that of her brother, told authorities he left home Tuesday to visit his girl friend, who had broken up with him New Year's day.

Miss Sturdevant quoted her brother as saying if his girl refused to make up he would commit suicide.

The body was in a sitting position with the arms folded across the chest.

November, and 26,800 below the December 1958 total of 77,400.

Rose said the total December figure dipped to 1,488,400, or 4,700 below the total of the previous month. He blamed this drop on the loss of 12,400 farm workers who normally are dropped from the labor force during the winter season.

Investigation Continues

Korea Demands Punishment of U. S. GIs Who Shaved Prostitutes' Heads

Seoul —(U)— South Korea will demand punishment of the Americans responsible for shaving the heads of two prostitutes caught in a U. S. army barracks, national police director Kee Kanghak indicated today.

"The incident is a matter of great interest to the Korean people, and we will demand punishment of those responsible, depending on a study of the investigation results," he told newsmen.

Report Findings He added that the U. S. army is being asked to report its findings to Korean police. The army has announced that two sergeants performed the shaving after midnight Jan. 2 on orders of a company commander who was cracking down on trespassing thieves and prostitutes.

The army has not yet decided whether to prefer charges, and a number of front-line officers are known to feel harsh punishment is not warranted.

Plan Swift Court Action in Anti-Semitic Hate Campaign

West Germans Set Up Program of Stiffer Sentences for Violators

Bonn, Germany —(U)— The West German government launched a double-barreled campaign last night to stamp out anti-Semitic demonstrations by swift court action against hate-mongers and by stiffer sentences.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and his cabinet called for speedy enactment of a law to increase the penalties for "stirring up hatred against groups because of their natural origin." The maximum sentence now is three months in jail; the bill to be submitted to the Bundestag will set that as the minimum.

Special Meeting Adenauer and his cabinet at a special meeting also agreed unanimously "that cases under investigation should be brought to court as quickly as possible and that the penalties should correspond to the severity of the misdeeds," a communique said.

Two Germans already have been convicted of anti-Semitic acts. Police say two others being held have admitted daubing swastikas and anti-Jewish slogans on the new synagogue in Cologne on Christmas eve, the incident which launched the present wave of anti-Semitic acts.

Four Men Four men were arrested yesterday in West Berlin on suspicion of anti-Semitic activities. Seventeen others are being held there after a neo-Nazi youth demonstration.

A 35-year-old German was arrested and questioned today in Giessen after four large swastikas and symbols of Hitler's SS elite corps were found painted outside a U. S. army barracks there. A U. S. officer said the swastikas looked "pretty amateurish but the SS symbols looked as though they were painted by a pro."

with by Korean authorities. The U. S. 8th army has announced the haircutting was performed in a company orderly room with scissors and electric razor by Sgt. Ora Cur-nutte, Chillicothe, Ohio, and Sgt. Harry K. Saunders, Kansas City, Mo., on orders of the company commander, Capt. John W. McEnery of Cheyenne, Wyo.

But the army said it did not condone such treatment of trespassers, and the commander of the battalion involved warned his officers against a repetition.

The two shorn women, Kim Ae-soon, 37, and Kim Chung-ja, 21, said they are thinking of asking $10,000 to $20,000 compensation for the indignity they suffered. They admitted slipping into the camp through a hole in the fence and said they were looking for soldiers they were acquainted with. The GIs they awakened were strangers.

National Assemblyman Chung Joon, an independent, announced he would demand strong action against the Americans involved when the assembly convenes next week.

Korean Citizens Justice Minister Hong Jin-ki said he regretted that the soldiers took it upon themselves to punish prostitutes since offenses committed by Korean citizens should be dealt

Extra Workers, Not-My-Job Pleas Irritate Consumers

Unions Justify Conditions on Basis Of Former Management Abuses

BY ROGER GREENE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In New York's Grand Central station, a New Haven-bound train sat on the track for 23 minutes while passengers fumed and the engineer waited for a yard man to clean the locomotive's dirty windshield.

Chided for delaying the train's departure, the engineer explained:

"A couple of days ago I cleaned a dirty windshield myself, but I won't do it again. It's not my job. The maintenance foreman shouldn't have put the engine on the line in the first place with a dirt-fogged shield like that."

The nation's railroads, pressed by stiff competition from autos, trucks and airlines, say this "not-my-job" attitude is a key factor in forces that are crippling railroad efficiency and saddling the industry with ruinous costs. They call it "featherbedding."

Unions' Reply

The unions reply, in effect: "Supposing you had just campaign, cites the following examples:

Many Examples

Engine crew members were registering off duty at Hastings, Neb., when they were instructed to move their engine to a nearby track. They claimed—and received—an extra day's pay for the few minutes extra work, on the ground it constituted a recall.

The crew on a west coast passenger train collects a 50 per cent bonus for performing "freight service" on the run between Portland, Ore., and Spokane, Wash., because the train carries a sealed freight car between those two points five days a week—even though the freight car is not touched en route.

Industry spokesmen say many of the work rules are so old nobody remembers how they originated. Down the years, the rules have been interpreted countless times by arbiters and umpires in various disputes, so that today they fill volumes.

But the unions say the rules developed as labor's answer to a long history of management abuses, such as the speedup.

Chief Speaks Up

"These featherbedding charges make me boil," says Guy L. Brown, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

"Railway employees could point to case after case where workers have been abused beyond the limits of human endurance. That's why we have the rules."

Some economists, on the other hand, say the featherbedding dispute is merely the symptom of a far graver problem. Automation.

Union leaders concede that in the current strike threatening rail dispute, they are battling to save thousands of jobs from disappearing amid the tremendous mid-century upsurge of automation with its labor-saving devices.

Railroads Not Alone

The railroads are by no means alone in their charges of featherbedding practices, which they claim are bleeding off the savings expected from expensive new automatic equipment.

In a sense, it might even be said that the universal coffee break is featherbedding, because it involves getting paid for time not worked.

Among conditions reported in some areas:

In the building industry, carpenters sometimes refuse to handle prefabricated panels, and still cling to the old handsaw when a power saw would do the work five times faster.

Painters demand double wages for using a spray gun; in some cities, house painters refuse to use a brush wider than four inches.

Plumbers Accused

Similarly, plumbers often refuse to use prethreaded pipe. When it comes already threaded from the factory, they cut off the threaded end and rethread the pipe by hand.

In the printing industry, union rules say all local advertising arriving at a newspaper plant in the form of plates or ready-to-use mats must be reset by hand, proofread and corrected. The "dead horse" type, unused, then is dumped into the hell-box and melted down.

A steamship company says it needs only 10 men to operate a baggage conveyor, but the union requires it to hire twice that number. Some of the extra hands take turns pressing a button.

In the theater world, four standby musicians get $70 a performance for listening while two pianists play the accompaniment in a Broadway revue. And a 1-man show, like Victor Borge's solo performance, requires at least four stagehands, by union rules, although the theater says one stagehand could do all the work.

Grew From Abuses

The union reply to management cries of featherbedding is generally this: The work rules grew from management abuses and are calculated to insure decent working conditions, prevent speedups and management arbitrariness, and to promote job securities of workers. Any specific abuses, they contend, are subject to negotiation.

The steel industry, in the recent strike, aired charges of "loafing, featherbedding and unjustifiable idleness," but centered its fire chiefly on a demand for greater flexibility in changing work practices.

Along the way, the steel companies raised the much-publicized case of the air-conditioned crane cab. This was the incident in which a steel company provided a relief operator for a 2-man crane crew because of intense heat in the crane cab as it hovered over the soaking pit.

Then the company air-conditioned the cab and dropped the relief man, thereby drawing a protest from the United Steel Workers union that the company was changing work conditions improperly. As it turned out, investigation disclosed that the umpire, in ruling on the dispute, rejected the union's complaint.

Auto Industry Free

The auto industry has been singularly free of featherbedding friction. It has never arisen as a major issue in contract negotiations.

Privately, an industry spokesman said the answer is that the auto companies have never allowed featherbedding practices to get started, and he added:

"The union knows we'd take a strike on any such thing." (Tomorrow: "Who's getting rich?")

The Steel Settlement

Settlement of the steel strike is, of course, wonderful news for America. Yet the manner in which it was brought about, and the terms of the settlement, leave unresolved several important problems in the labor-management field.

The steel industry and the steelworkers' union simply could not reach an agreement by themselves, so finally the government stepped in. True, the government played its role circumspectly and tactfully, with Vice President Nixon and Labor Sec. Mitchell acting as mediators in unpublicized meetings, rather than flamboyantly and with a flourish of the state's police power a la Harry Truman. Yet the fact remains that a group of privately-owned companies and their employees could reach agreement only through the so-called "good offices" of high officials of the federal government, which means of course that they were faced with the threat of open governmental interference in their affairs if they did not give ground.

In other words, collective bargaining in our basic industries is still not completely free; since both sides know that at a certain point the government will step in, they design their proposals and their postures with this in mind. Perhaps this will always be the case; after all, it is a fact that the country cannot tolerate a really prolonged strike in a basic industry, and the government's role in these negotiations can be said to merely represent this fact. Another way of putting it would be to say that the government's part represents the public's interest in the negotiations, an interest that certainly should be represented.

Yet it cannot be said that we really have free industry and free labor when both sides know that the government will step in at a certain point and force a settlement of a labor dispute. If we accept the argument that freedom of industry and freedom of labor must be curtailed in some degree in the public interest, we must draw up the rules covering the government's role very carefully, else we will find ourselves returning to the Fair Deal days when the government actually set wage rates throughout the country. Wage rates set by government always are politically motivated and inevitably are inflationary and inimical to a sound economy.

Another great problem that was not resolved is that of wage and price inflation. The settlement is not anywhere near as inflationary as the union wanted, yet it is not a non-inflationary settlement as was originally called for by President Eisenhower. The heads of the larger steel companies have announced that they will not raise prices immediately but they have carefully left the door open for increases a little later on; we have no doubt that such increases will come. Thus we have not won a victory against inflation, although the steel companies' determined stand against another round of highly inflationary wage increases apparently has brought about a slowing down of inflationary forces. For this we can be thankful; the Eisenhower administration's greatest contribution to our welfare — next to its work in the cause of world peace — may well be the at least partial stabilization of the dollar. We have been in considerably greater danger of a dollar panic in recent years than most people have realized.

And finally, the settlement included no real agreement on the problem of work rules; the union merely agreed to a joint study with management of this question. Yet here again, perhaps, we should be thankful for a small gain; the union at least has admitted, if only inferentially, that the problem exists. Next to inflation, the greatest challenge facing labor leaders today is the necessity of eliminating work rules which were written in a bygone era when jobs were scarce and unemployment was the economy's gravest problem, rather than productive efficiency. Such rules cause economic waste which eventually penalizes everyone including the workers.

Vice President Nixon's part in the settlement is another feather in the cap of this man with the amazing ability to appear in the right places at the right times, and to come up with the right answers. In the space of a year he has become the man who told off Khrushchev and set up the exchange of Khrushchev-Eisenhower visits which so far have turned out so well for this country and the free world; the man who started the chain of public acclamation of the United States in other countries including those behind the Iron Curtain; and now he is the man who "settled" the steel strike. No wonder Gov. Rockefeller left the field before a shot was fired.

Doctors Must Guard, Aid Patients In Choice of Medical Insurance

From The Wisconsin Medical Journal

The doctor deceives himself who believes he need not be concerned with the kind of sickness insurance his patient carry . . .

The role of the doctor of medicine has been of necessity vastly broadened. Today he must not only minister to the medical needs of his patient, but also he must consider it his duty to protect the personal relationship between his patient and himself in a changed social environment. He is forced to consider the economics of how his patient is going to pay for his services in order to retain control of his own practice.

Despite the quantitative increase for service, the pressure for socialized medicine — except for special sections of the population such as the aged, certain union groups, military personnel and a few others — has been relieved. That is because many more wage-earners can now afford the prepayment plans that assure adequate medical care when it is required. Instead of free medical care, supplied by the government and financed by general taxation, insurance against medical destitution becomes important. And therefore, the insuring agency becomes involved in the relationship between the patient and his doctor.

That is why the doctor can no longer be indifferent to the kind of medical insurance his patients buy; nor can he be unconcerned with the character of the health service available to his patient. If the patient is indemnified in whole or part by an insuring agency beyond the control of the doctor, the doctor-patient relationship must become a doctor-insurer-patient triangle. This intrusion of a third party, in a fiscal capacity, inevitably affects the conduct of the doctor toward his patient, and vice versa, in an adverse manner. Questions of quality and amount of care, as well as value of services, become subject to non-professional and possibly hostile judgment and could lead to medical practices controlled and owned by private organizations.

To protect the traditional, individual relationship between doctor and patient, the doctor must himself keep control over the insuring agency. In the trend toward no-fee-schedule policies rather than partial service benefit or indemnity policies, the doctor may be the only one who can, through existing medical organization, offer a reasonable, low cost policy in a practical efficient manner. At the same time, the doctor, through his organization, can be a major factor in the control of abuse of prepaid medical care plans by policing the extravagance of patients and fellow doctors alike.

By the same token, by leading the way toward planned care for the aged, the medical profession can shut out the intrusion of government agency as well as predatory commercial enterprise in this complicated and vitally important area of medical care. And finally, through its own prepayment plans, the medical profession can assure that the ancillary services continue in their proper relationship to physicians and to each other. . . .

Here's to Days Of the Steam Locomotive

Editor, Post-Crescent:

The night would be dark, but not completely, for there would be a cold radiance from the stars reflected by the crunchy, powdery snow. And it would be quiet, the cold stillness of a severe winter's night.

But suddenly the night would explode into a harsh cacophony. The land shivered in the demonic breathing and grunting of a giant in labor. Its baleful eye would glare upon the ties that bound it, pointing out the gentle but vitality-sapping grade that lay ahead. Then the black iron beast would scream in defiance of the land and hurl all its sinews into its dreadful task.

My brother would look at me wordlessly and a bit

Mr. Wyngaard Reflects On Madison Tax Bill

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The annual property tax bills distributed during the holiday season again provide a reminder of a political fact of life in Wisconsin that ought to be widely appreciated but unfortunately is not.

It is that the tax problem, on the whole, relates to the financing of local government rather than to providing the money for the nourishment of state services, numerous and expanding and ambitious as they are.

In Madison the typical householder will find his property tax liability this year substantially above his state tax liability, in spite of the fact that the impact of the income tax has become breathlessly we would dress and hurry to the "cut" that extended beyond our land to be silent spectators of battle. Heedless of the cold we would watch, and as the locomotive passed us, would be thrown into sharp relief by the flaring open-jawed fire-box, and as quickly be cast again into darkness.

Then there would be the shrill, yet muffled sounds of frozen springs in torment, the screeching of couplings pulled almost beyond endurance. Ever so slowly the train of cars would move, the red lights of the caboose would finally pass us, then the staccato bark of the engine would quicken until even the sound would be swallowed by the dark . . .

Now only three blocks from my boyhood home stands the embodiment of all my youthful rapture. There in Telulah park is placed a monument to memories, and a monument to the persistence and untiring toil of a man who loves engines; whose energies will be mirrored for many years in the awe struck eyes of all the little ones (and many big ones, too) who will worship at the shrine of "high iron."

True, there is a difference between the fast stepper that is encased at the park and those brute engines that trudged their loads of pulp wood up the hill. Yet I like to believe that in the cold, frosty winter night there will be a communion between all those near forgotten sounds that will pour (but only in memory) from the "cut" and the caged locomotive that patiently waits, but ever so silently now.

visibly heavier during the recent period of inflation.

Madison is not typical. It is a costly city, accustomed to high standards of service and expenditure, and pressed with unusual problems. But it probably is fairly illustrative of the larger urban communities in which an increasing share of the inhabitants of Wisconsin live. The average Madison homeowner contemplating his bill from the city treasurer today may wonder, if he has any capacity for reflection, how long the trend can continue without a popular revolt.

HOW IT GOES

This correspondent lives in a representative new suburb of the capital city and is reasonably well acquainted with its homeowners.

The typical tax bite for the city budget in this neighborhood is greater than the principal and interest payment on the residential properties, in a district which like most of its kind in urban America has mostly mortgaged properties.

The comparison of typical individual local tax burdens and the state tax liability favors the state, moreover, because of the chance that state disbursement tends to be somewhat more loosely controlled than is the city budget.

Moreover, the individual's state tax payment to a considerable degree is not a state tax contribution at all, but is used to subsidize heavily the local budgets which have long since outrun the capacity of that strained local property tax. Nearly 40 per cent of the income tax yield under state law, for example, is sent back to local governments according to the residence of the taxpayers, something that many critics tend to forget when they note what the legislature is doing in a tax context.

Another factor favoring the state comparison is that the municipalities are deferring huge totals of their tax liability in the form of bonded debt that other generations of dues-payers will be required to retire. The debt rate of local government of Wisconsin is increasing at a considerably higher rate than is the spending from current tax income.

THE CONCLUSION

Two conclusions would appear to be reasonably evident, from the city viewpoint, if not yet to the small town dweller or the countryman:

Modern urban communities, with their irresistible demands for services resulting from their very nature, will one day soon find their property tax budgets collapsing.

The demand for relief will be so enormous, in terms of state aid or state tax shares required, as to make tinkering with traditional state tax sources impracticable, given the fact that the states are economically competitive communities and Wisconsin is already out of line with its neighbors.

These are the conclusions that almost surely will result from the deliberations of the citizens revenue commission now at work. They will be dressed up and documented, but they will be there. A new approach to state taxation to prop up a dangerously strained municipal revenue structure can no longer be deferred, barring a miracle, and politicians have learned that miracles are scarce.

Anti-Semitism on the Rise

The current outbreaks of anti-Semitism in various European countries are difficult to evaluate and it is hard to place blame. But whatever the instigation, they are alarming. We are fortunately too close to the hideous Hitler era to shrug them aside as incidental.

The desecration of synagogues in West Germany and reported meetings of young men still dedicated to the Nazi theology are particularly alarming. It is possible that emphasis upon the stories, rumors of more extensive anti-Semitism, and the desecrations themselves are Communist inspired. The lot of the Jew in Russia is not a happy one. Obviously the Communists are opposed to the bonds of friendship among non-Communist European nations and fear of a resurgence of Nazi power could drive a thick wedge between Bonn and former enemies of the Reich.

The present German government, particularly Conrad Adenauer, has made it clear that it abhors the violations. A great many of the present German leaders spent the war in concentration camps. But there apparently have been some flagrant abuses of free speech and even of the forgiveness of sins. A doctor charged with euthanasia practices under Hitler received an appointment as a medical expert despite revelations of his past. The Refugee Minister now has been accused of the deaths of hundreds of Jews in 1941. While an individual must be considered innocent until found guilty both legally and by society, a government official in a land once dominated by Hitler, should have a thoroughly clean bill of health before any appointment.

In the United States, with our long heritage of freedom of ideas, we have a repugnance toward restrictions on inflammatory speeches or literature. But the German people showed an appalling inability to resist such lures only 25 years ago. The economic and political conditions are far different today but we always must remember that civilized peoples can retrogress.

As long as the present German government retains such a vote of confidence as it received in the last national elections, there need not be world-wide concern. But the people in West Germany and the other countries, including the United States, where racial prejudice becomes violent have plenty of cause for soul-searching and alarm.

Done Like True Cavalrymen

American GIs, it was often said during World War II, were never so busy in the affairs of combat that they couldn't find time to give aid and comfort to a child.

It would appear this country's peace-time soldiers are no less humanitarian in spirit than their counterparts of the 1941 to '45 era for it is the men of a U. S. cavalry unit in Germany who have come to the aid of a 10-year-old girl in Umatilla, Ore., who lost her horse.

America first read of and then wept with Susan Hams when press dispatches told how someone shot her pet horse without apparent provocation. This, in itself, probably would not create great sorrow on a national scale except for the fact that Susan is crippled and her gentle stallion's broad back and four sturdy legs made the world a better place for the little girl.

But GIs of the Second battalion of the Second Armored cavalry stepped swiftly into the breach. They wired Susan's mother of their desire to replace the horse and the grateful parent accepted.

We hope Susan enjoys her new horse. We hope it becomes as much a part of her life as the one that was taken from her.

And we hope, too, that Susan, her parents and people everywhere who read of the incident remember how it was that a crippled girl in eastern Oregon came to receive another horse. All too frequently men of the armed forces, particularly in peacetime, are looked upon as rowdy, ill-mannered, malcontents. They, unfortunately, fall under the shadow of a reputation carved by a very, very small minority.

Inefficiency Not Cause of Farm Problem

From The Wisconsin Council of Agriculture Newsletter

Even though city people are fed, clothed and sheltered by the resources of agriculture and the efforts of farm people, yet their interest in and their understanding about farm problems is much too limited. Politicians and economists disagree on what the farm problem is or what to do about it. Our job is to put an end to the myths and fancied notions that confuse thinking about the farm situation.

We hear it said, "If farmers were as efficient as city workers they wouldn't be in trouble." The fact is that per man-hour production has increased faster in agriculture than in industry. Significantly, farm production has increased faster than non-farm production and faster than the increase in the nation's population.

In agriculture, production per paid man-hour increased 48.6 per cent during the period 1940-57, while in non-agricultural industries the increase was 25.5 per cent. During that same period, the average annual production increase for agriculture was 6 per cent. In non-agriculture, the increase was slightly under 3 per cent.

Electronic Brain Goofs, Increases Taxpayers' Costs

Miami, Fla. — Bank clerks take heart — even those mechanical brains err sometimes. An electronic monster in the Metropolitan Budget Director's department dropped the last digit in 80,000 personal property tax bills, dropping everybody's taxes by 90 per cent.

But the error was discovered before the tax bills were mailed out and now the taxpayer will not only have to pay the full tax — he'll also have to pay for all the wasted paper.

City Workers Ask Teamster Negotiations

Park, Sanitation,
Street Employees
Select Local 563

Appleton park, street and sanitation department employees have selected Teamsters Local 563 as bargaining agent and Wednesday night asked the council to set up negotiations. The council is bound, under new state law, to negotiate with the unions. Several aldermen have indicated negotiations may be carried out exclusively by letter. In two letters to the city clerk, Robert Schlieve, secretary-treasurer of the local, said the workers want representation "on questions of wages, hours and conditions of employment."

Asks Conference
The letters also asked for "a suitable time and place to conduct such conferences."

The employees "have the right to affiliate with labor organizations of their own choosing and to be represented by labor organizations of their own choice." Interference with these rights is in violation of the state law, the letter said.

Previously, labor petitions could be held by the city in definitely without action. Both requests were referred to the finance committee.

Special Verdicts Law Changes Suggested

Aged Statute Causes Appeals, Confusion;
Should be at Court's Discretion, Parnell Says

Wisconsin's 103-year-old special verdicts law has caused a tremendous volume of legal interpretations as to appeals and make its use hazardous to all should be parties to litigation, and changed. Circuit Judge Andrew W. Parnell told the state board of circuit judges in Milwaukee today.

Court's Duty
Separating the issues in a special verdict, instead of a decision on the basic and fundamental issue of fault or casual negligence, tends to multiply the controversy between the parties, the jurist commented.

The court has the responsibility and the discretion as to the form of the special verdict, but not the choice as to its submission to a jury, Parnell indicated. In the federal court system, the special verdict is looked upon as a procedure — that is, it is the court's decision as to submitting a special verdict to the jury, not at the litigating parties' request.

Complex Verdicts
The considerable requirements as to the contents of a special verdict has "led us to the underbrush of complexity rather than expose us to the light and simplicity of judicial administrative expediency. The special verdict is so fraught with potentials of error as to invite prolongation of trials for their avoidance, appeals for their discovery and retrials for their correction," the judge declared.

Wisconsin is one of the few states that employs the special verdict, he pointed out. Commenting that he might be too optimistic, Judge Parnell added that he looked forward to submitting issues in a negligence case to a jury on three questions:

3 Questions
1. In what percentage, if any, do you find the defendant at fault?
2. In what percentage, if any, do you find the plaintiff at fault?
3. Damages.

Use of the word "fault" is deliberate because it is commonly understood by lay people who constitute juries, he explained. Instructions to a jury would take care of all the legal contemplation intended in the use of the word.

Not Annihilation
Parnell pointed out that he did not intend the annihilation of the special verdict and the substitution of the general verdict as an alternative. However, he added, the transfer of the use of a special verdict from the attorneys to the trial courts would be an important step in improving the disposition of jury trials in automobile and negligence litigation.

Changes in the special verdict law must come from the legislature, and Parnell recommended the circuit judges board refer the question to its legislative committee for study and analysis.

Judge Parnell also is chairman of the board's uniform jury instruction committee which is working to simplify, unify and publish jury instructions for court use in Wisconsin. The committee met Wednesday. The board meeting ends tonight with officer election and a dinner.

Merit Raises Pass Over Referral Try

Hikes for 63 to Cost $10,000 Annually; Three Oppose Method

An attempt to refer the entire merit wage increase question to the finance committee failed at Wednesday night's council meeting, and the 63 raises costing a total of $10,000 annually were granted.

Ald. Donald W. Mueller moved for the referral, but was not able to secure a second. "There's lots more to be considered than we have considered," he said.

During the voting, Mueller approved the report. Aldermen Malmstrom, Tucker and Mrs. Stillings voted no.

At the end of the meeting, Mrs. Stillings expressed "my deepest sympathy to all those city employees whose increases were not made retroactive to Jan. 1. It is very unfair and very sad," she said.

The committee report also denied a resolution by Mrs. Stillings asking that all merit increases be made retroactive to Jan. 1, the day police department employees received their merit hikes.

Mrs. Stillings also asked Police Chief Hendricks about an "ambiguous" section of the new wage agreement, which would give two mechanics $35 a month more when they are put on patrol duty. The men now are paid as much as patrolmen, but were not under the previous plan.

Mueller replied: "That's just one reason why I asked to send this whole report back to the committee."

Increases Listed
The merit wages approved last night included 15 in the park department, four in the clerk's office, two in the health department, three in the electrical department, seven in the fire department, 17 in the street department, five in the sewage treatment plant, four in the engineering department and six in the sanitation department.

In addition, a $20 monthly boost for Building Inspector Walter Bogan was referred to the finance committee in the board of public works report.

After the meeting, Mrs. Stillings explained she is not opposed to merit raises or to the particular employees receiving them. "I am opposed to the method of handling the wage increases. They should be handled on an overall basis, not a piecemeal basis," she declared.

Tucker said later, "I don't believe the council rules were followed properly. The recommendations should have come from the committees which have jurisdiction over the particular departments."

Malmstrom added, "I'm opposed to these tampering with the pay plan. I didn't speak against it in the meeting, because it wouldn't have done any good."

Found Asleep on Floor, Denies Drunkenness

Edwin J. Frye, 39, of 924 W. Fifth street, who was arrested Thursday night in his home after police found him asleep on the floor, Tuesday in municipal court denied he was in a drunken condition or that he created a disturbance by beating his wife and children.

He posted $28.95 bond for trial Wednesday, but his wife, Mary told acting Dist. Atty. Raymond Dohr her husband wished to forfeit the bond.

5-Year-Old Boy Hit By Car, Slightly Hurt

A car driven by Kenneth W. Ardell, 30, of 1813 N. Clark street, struck Steven Gantner, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Gantner, 1718 N. Superior street, as the boy attempted to cross Superior street in front of his home about 12:15 p.m. Tuesday. The boy received a bump on the head and was treated by a physician, police were told.

Loos Follows School Buses, Finds One With 64 Riders

After a week "of chasing school buses all over town," Ald. Kenneth Loos didn't find any improvement in a "serious" overcrowding situation, he told the council Wednesday night.

He claimed that one high school bus Tuesday bus No. 67—"had 64 passengers on it, and I swear a half dozen slipped by me, the way they were pouring out of the bus."

"No Authority"
"Now, I'm no bus authority, but I'd teach my kids to walk before I'd let them ride on buses crowded like that. When are we going to get an answer to this problem?" he asked.

"In the summer, we put the snap on two kids riding double on a bike. In the winter, we cram 64 into one bus."

"Why pick on this one ordinance?" questioned Ald. Homer Malmstrom. "We have thousands of ordinances that are buried. I'm for enforcing them all or doing away with them."

Ald. Thomas K. Schneider, chairman of the public safety committee, told Loos the problem was being studied by Roland Nock, Morgan school principal in charge of school bus activity, and the bus owner. He said he had not received a report, but he knew that buses were not always as crowded as they are during cold spells.

Loos called on Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings, who reported that a similar attempt to solve the school bus problem had been made five years ago. "We had hearings with the public service commission, and reports stacked up so high. But still nothing was done," she said.

Silence is the Voice of Quality

Get behind the wheel of a new Cadillac car some day soon—point its handsome hood down your favorite stretch of highway—and listen!

Except for the occasional lullaby of the passing breeze, there will be literally nothing but silence to greet your ears.

But, oh, how meaningful that silence is!

For it speaks, with irrefutable logic, of the ingenuity of Cadillac design—and of the soundness of Cadillac engineering—and of the excellence and solid integrity of Cadillac craftsmanship.

And just as silence is the voice of quality in a motor car—so quality is the product of experience.

For almost six decades, Cadillac has devoted itself exclusively to the creation of the finest motor cars that the current automotive science would permit.

So rigid, in fact, has been Cadillac's adherence to the principles of quality that the two have become virtually inseparable in the public mind.

Never before, however, has this quest for perfection been as fruitful as for 1960.

In its styling and design, in its construction and assembly, and in its attention to detail—it is, far and away, the finest Cadillac yet.

We suggest that you see this new Cadillac—and drive it—and listen to it—very soon.

You'll find, we're certain, that the quiet of a Cadillac is the most eloquent sound in motordom.

Ike Sees Record Prosperity, Ultimate End of Poverty

mendous thrust, and said spending for space projects will be practically doubled—to about a billion dollars a year.

Inflation Peril
In his address, carried nationwide on television and radio, the president spoke of record prosperity in 1960 and also called for vigorous new efforts to check inflation.

He expressed gratification over settlement earlier this week of the marathon steel dispute, and said both management and labor must make every effort to increase productivity and thus avoid price increases.

In his final state of the Union message, the president said the potential danger to the nation of such prolonged labor-management disputes must be met. However, he proposed no remedy through legislation.

Instead, he said he intends to encourage regular discussions between management and labor, outside the bargaining table, in an effort to prevent repetition of the steel crisis or other major strikes.

To the newly convened congress sprinkled with presidential hopefuls, Eisenhower— noting he is beginning his last year in office—appealed for harmony in relations between the White House and the Democratic-controlled congress.

Quite likely with an eye to the expected jousting for political advantage by both Republicans and Democrats during the session, Eisenhower said: "Every minute spent in irrelevant interbranch wrangling is precious time taken from the intelligent initiation and adoption of coherent policies for our national survival and policies."

The president, who has had to work with a democratic-run congress the last five of his seven years in office, remarked that nevertheless "we have weathered the storms." He pledged in his final year to "devote my full energies to the tasks at hand, whether these involve travel for the promoting of world understanding, negotiations to reduce international discord, or constant discussions and communications with the congress and the American people on issues both domestic and foreign."

Outlines Program
The president's state of the Union message sketched the administration's 1960 program in only broad outline. The details will be set forth in his Jan. 18 budget message which he announced formally today will call for balanced spending and income in the new fiscal year, starting July 1. The reported scheduled spending figure is a peace time record—about $81 billion.

Eisenhower said that despite the long steel dispute, marked by a 116-day strike and then a back-to-work order, the budget for the current fiscal year ending June 30 will show a surplus of about $200 million. The administration had feared earlier the dispute would throw the budget into the red.

The president's message contained no real surprises in the field of legislation. Among other things, he called for continuance of foreign aid to bolster the free world against communism; for enactment of the civil rights program he recommended last year, particularly with respect to protecting the right to vote; new farm laws—also recommended previously—to replace "an outmoded system which has failed to protect farm income;" and a school aid program with federal incentives to encourage state and local classroom construction.

Alluding to the threat of the free world from communism, Eisenhower said:

"With both sides of this divided world in possession of unbelievably destructive weapons, mankind approaches a state where mutual annihilation becomes a possibility."

He said recent Soviet deportments and pronouncements "suggest the possible opening of a somewhat less strained period in the relationships between the Soviet Union and the free world."

If the Soviet pronouncements are genuine, Eisenhower said, "there is brighter hope of diminishing the intensity of past rivalry and eventually of substituting persuasion for coercion." But he added: "Whether this is to become an era of lasting promise remains to be tested by actions."

Eisenhower cautioned free nations against being "misled by pleasant promises," but he said the United States intends to deal with Russia with the utmost seriousness.

Eisenhower at the same time made it plain he does not expect Russia to touch off an all-out war.

"It is my studied conviction," he said, "that no nation will ever risk war against us unless we should be so foolish as to neglect the defense forces we now so powerfully support."

Dangerous to Attack
"It is world-wide knowledge that any nation which might be tempted to attack the United States, even though our country might sustain great losses, would itself promptly suffer a terrible destruction."

In sounding this warning, Eisenhower disclosed this about Atlas intercontinental missiles now becoming operational:

"In 14 recent test launchings, at ranges of over 5,000 miles, Atlas has been striking on an average within two miles of the target. This is less than the length of a jet runway—well within the circle of total destruction."

The president also said the nation's striking power in manned bombers is unmatched. He added that increasing numbers of nuclear submarines, some armed with deadly Polaris missiles, will be entering service.

"These remarkable ships and weapons, ranging the oceans, will be capable of accurate fire on targets virtually anywhere on earth," Eisenhower said. "Impossible to destroy by surprise attack, they will become one of our most effective sentinels for peace."

In this presidential and congressional election year, with Republicans sure to hammer at peace and prosperity campaign themes, Eisenhower told the Democratic-controlled congress: "Today our surging strength is apparent to everyone. 1960 promises to be the most prosperous year in our history."

Senate Leaders—Everett Dirksen, Illinois Republican, and Lyndon Johnson, Texas Democrat—pose Wednesday before the 86th congress convened for its second session.

The president, in dealing with settlement of the steel dispute, expressed gratification that "several of the major steel producers have announced there will be no increase in steel prices at this time." Eisenhower also said:

"The national interest demands that in the period of industrial peace that has been assured by the new cabinet, both labor and management must make every possible effort to increase efficiency and productivity in the manufacture of steel so that price increases can be avoided."

"Nagging Disorders"
The president listed some "nagging disorders" which he said plague the country despite the outlook for record prosperity. Among these was the need to prevent future labor-management stalemates.

Other disorders he mentioned included the continuing threat of inflation. He said rising costs and prices must be halted through exercise of stern discipline by every citizen—and by a balanced federal budget.

"We must fight inflation," he said, "as we would a fire that imperils our homes. Only by so doing can we prevent it from destroying our salaries, savings, pensions and insurance, and from gnawing away at the very roots of a free, healthy economy and the nation's security."

Another of the "nagging disorders" that must be dealt with, said Eisenhower, is in the field of civil rights—"the denial to some of our citizens of equal protection of the law."

The explosive civil rights issue is expected to occupy congress early in the session.

"In the long perspective of history," Eisenhower said, "the right to vote has been one of the strongest pillars of a free society. Our first duty is to protect this right against all encroachment. In spite of constitutional guarantees, and notwithstanding much progress of recent years, bias still deprives some persons in this country of equal protection of the laws."

Eisenhower called for enactment of the civil rights program he recommended last year, on which congress took no action. Among other things it called for giving the attorney general authority to inspect federal election records, and for requiring that such records be kept for a reasonable period to permit this inspection.

Eisenhower also dealt with these other points:

Foreign aid—The American people should make sure "that their own part in this great project be amply and cheerfully supported," the president said about a program which annually comes under hot attacks in congress. He called on other prosperous nations to help, saying:

Surplus Lower
"No longer is the United States the only major industrial country capable of providing substantial amounts of resources so urgently needed in the newly developing countries."

The president stressed once more that the U. S. surplus from foreign business transactions has fallen off substantially in recent years—to a point where the 1959 deficit approached $4 billion. Continuing deficits of anything like such magnitude, he said, would impair U. S. economic growth and check free world progress.

Interest Rates—Referring to refusal of congress last year to lift the 4 1/2 per cent interest ceiling on long-term government bonds, Eisenhower said:

"Removal of this roadblock has high priority in my legislative recommendations." The president spoke against "the unwillingness of the congress to remove archaic restrictions."

Farm—Legislation in this field, said Eisenhower, was written to deal with World War II food production problems and now is "woefully out of date, ineffective and expensive." He urged congress to approve legislation to "gear production more closely to markets, make costly surpluses more manageable, provide greater freedom in farm operations, and steadily increase net farm incomes."

School Aid—There is a vital need, Eisenhower said, for modern school plants, well qualified and adequately paid teachers, and the best possible teaching techniques and study programs. But "the route to better trained minds is not through the swift administration of a federal hygienic needle or sustained financial transfusion. . . . The educational process . . . cannot be made to leap ahead by crash, centralized government action."

The right way for the federal government to assist states and local communities, Eisenhower said, is through "the carefully reasoned" administration program already before congress—a program "designed to stimulate classroom construction" by means of federal incentives.

International Court—The United States now accepts the jurisdiction of the international court of justice, subject to a reservation that this country can determine whether specific matters rest instead within domestic jurisdiction. Eisenhower voiced support for a senate bill which would repeal this self-judging reservation.

If it is repealed, he said, he intends to urge similar ac-

Sale Cutback Noted in State Cranberries

Federal Report Responsible, Says
State Department

Madison — A pre-holiday federal search for contaminated cranberries resulted in a cutback in sales of Wisconsin berries of 90 to 95 per cent.

The estimate was made by the state department of agriculture today in its year-end production review. It said the state had one of its top cranberry years with production of more than 400,000 barrels. A federal announcement shortly before Thanksgiving warning housewives that some berries were contaminated slowed sales to a standstill. The contaminated berries contained traces of a chemical weed killer that produced cancer in rats.

Cruel Blow
"The announcement from Washington cut sales at least 90-95 per cent," the department said, "and despite stepped-up marketing attempts the cranberry industry suffered a cruel blow to its crop."

Weather conditions, especially at harvest time, cut in production of apples, potatoes and onions. A severe cold spell in October cut into harvesting operations, the department said, forcing growers to leave about 20,000 bushels on the trees. Late summer heat kept good color, resulting in some consumer resistance.

Potato digging was held up by excessive rains which eventually stopped the harvest altogether with up to 4,000 acres still in the ground. The same conditions prevailed for onion growers.

Crop Reports
Other crop reports: Strawberries — Good prices and yields about average.

Cherries — Good quality and yield with prices that some growers felt didn't cover costs of production.

Lettuce — One of the best years since lettuce growing began in Wisconsin.

Peas — Pack reduced 25 per cent compared with 1958 through acreage controls. Crop of excellent quality.

Sweet corn — Last summer's pack was second largest on record, stocks on hand higher than a year ago.

Green, wax and lima beans — Increases in pack ranged from 14 to 19 per cent.

Beets and carrots — Beet pack off 27 per cent from 1958 and carrot pack cut roughly in half. Reductions due to weather conditions.

Dairymen Win Price Boosts

Increase Expected To Hike Income
By $2 Million

Madison — Dairy farmers shipping to the Milwaukee market Wednesday won a price increase that will boost their income by $2 million this year.

A total of 2,024 farmers will share in the increase. There were indications dairies would announce 1-cent a quart boosts today.

The increase was announced by the Milwaukee Cooperative Milk Producers association, after three days of negotiations with 13 dairies. Edwin Schmidt of Brookfield, executive secretary of the farmers' cooperative, said the increases will go into effect next Monday.

Under the agreement, the price will be $4.11. Under the milk, will be raised to $4.31 per hundred pounds except in May and June when the price will be $4.11. Under the old agreement, farmers received $3.84 a hundred pounds. They had asked $4.45 CWT under the new pact.

With the increase, farmers will receive 94 cents a quart, an increase of one cent a quart.

Home delivered milk sells for 24 cents a quart.

The agreement also provides for increase in the farmer price for milk used in cottage cheese and other milk products.

Jewish Symbols Put on Churches

New York — Jewish religious symbols and the Old Testament phrase, "an eye for an eye," were found painted today on outside walls of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and the Riverside church.

The churches are among New York city's best known houses of worship. Riverside church is interdenominational and was erected by the late John D. Rockefeller, a Baptist. The cathedral is Protestant Episcopal. Police, alerted to keep a lookout for vandals defacing churches and Jewish synagogues, discovered the paint smears at the cathedral and Riverside church shortly after midnight. There were stars of David along with the Biblical phrase.

Proxmire Says He'll Await Developments On Johnson Dispute

Washington — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said developments at today's senate Democratic caucus will decide whether he resumes his attack on Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, D-Texas, for what Proxmire contends has been 1-man rule.

Proxmire criticized Johnson, senate Democratic leader, in several speeches last

Atlas Missile Makes Flight Down Range

Cape Canaveral, Fla. — An Atlas intercontinental range missile streaked 6,325 miles to an Atlantic target Wednesday night, marking the 15th straight success for this nation's most powerful military rocket.

The air force announced the Atlas warhead impacted as planned beyond the south Atlantic island of Ascension. It was the second consecutive success for the missile over its full range.

The Atlas soon will be tested with a new model engine designed to boost its range to 7,000 miles.

The Atlas has been operational since September and a few of the big rockets are stationed with troops at Vandenberg air force base, Calif.

Italy's President Cancels Red Trip

Rome — President Giovanni Gronchi today was reported improving from the influenza attack which forced him to postpone a state visit to Moscow.

A spokesman said Gronchi still had a slight fever—100 to 101 degrees—but was resting comfortably.

He had been scheduled to leave for the Soviet capital today. The spokesman said a new date for the visit would not be set until Gronchi recovered but indicated that it would be soon.

Some 20 Italian journalists already are in Moscow for the visit, which had aroused misgivings in Roman Catholic circles in Italy. Plans were being made to send a chartered plane to the Soviet capital for the newsmen.

Naval Physicist Predicts Nuclear Tests to Start Again This Summer

Baltimore — A physicist with the office of naval research predicts the United States will resume nuclear tests by summer.

The prediction was made Wednesday by Dr. William J. Thaler, project officer on the Argus experiment in which three nuclear blasts were set off at high altitudes in the Pacific in September 1958.

Dr. Thaler gave his personal opinion on nuclear tests during a lecture at Loyola college. He said he had no official information that the U. S. would resume tests.

Defense officials announced last week an end to the voluntary ban on testing nuclear weapons. But they said advance public notice would be given of any testing plans.

year for not calling frequent meetings of all Democratic senators so they could help in shaping party policy.

Madison — Tobacco trade spokesmen of the state are noting with some foreboding that two immediately adjacent states have raised to cent cigarette tax rate and an exemption for cigars and smoking tobacco. Tobacco merchandising trade representatives are aware that the issue has not yet been finally resolved in Wisconsin.

A citizens' revenue study commission now is studying sub-committee reports that suggest higher Wisconsin luxury excises on beer and liquor as well as tobacco.

"Perhaps such taxes are inevitable in our state, too," said one tobacco trade group representative in a letter to the tobacco tradesmen this

Pancakes Round-the-Clock for Chilly Days

Sieved Cottage Cheese goes into these feather-light pancakes served with piping hot sausages. They are good for breakfast, lunch or supper. Topped with creamed chicken, the cakes become a gourmet dish . . . served with fruited sauces, they make a party food.

Many Famous Ski Resorts in the Adirondack mountains serve this deluxe pancake concoction for which they have become famous. Known as Pancakes Adirondack, shaved maple sugar is sprinkled on the whipped cream that tops the 3-layer stacks of hot cakes.

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Food Editor

When the wind whips cold, whistling over rooftop and chimney . . . when the snow swirls gustily round the house with fierce intensity . . . or the day turns to a chilled, icicle calm . . . there's nothing so heartening as a good, hot meal . . . and our nomination for a winter favorite is pancakes.

One of the easiest of foods to prepare, the pancake has great versatility . . . it may be made in numerous ways for taste variety . . . it may be served all sorts of ways to become what we call a round-the-clock dish from breakfast to midnight party feature.

Pancakes take to whipped cream, sour cream, lemon juice and fine sugar to make delightful concoctions—they may be served with syrups, fruited sauces and shaved maple sugar . . . they go well with slices of ham, plump brown sausages or strips of curled bacon, cooked to an aromatic turn.

One of the finest brunch or informal party dishes possible to serve are Swedish Pancakes, paper thin in the continental manner and rolled in lemon peel and sugar. If you are entertaining guests under circumstances that call for something more than a snack but less than a full meal, here's your dish.

Here are four unusual pancake recipes that simply take the flapjack out of the backwoods where it has fame as a favorite camp breakfast dish.

Swedish Pancakes
1½ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
3 eggs, well beaten
3 cups milk
3 tablespoons melted butter
¼ cup grated lemon peel
1 cup sugar

Mix and sift flour, salt and one tablespoon sugar. Combine eggs, milk and melted butter. Add to flour mixture; stir until smooth (batter will be very thin). Bake on hot griddle, using half-cup batter to make each large pancake, eight to nine inches in diameter.

Combine lemon peel and half cup of sugar. Sprinkle about one and one-half tablespoons on each cake as it is finished. Roll pancake; keep in slow oven, 250 degrees, until all pancakes are finished. Serve with sour cream and preserves. Recipe makes about eight large pancakes.

Pancakes Adirondack
2 cups pancake mix
2 cups milk
1 egg
2 tablespoons melted butter
shaved maple sugar melted butter
whipped cream

Add milk, egg and butter to pancake mix, stirring lightly. A somewhat lumpy batter will result, but this makes light, fluffy pancakes. Pour one-fourth cup batter for each cake onto a hot, lightly buttered griddle. Bake to a golden brown, turning only once. Stack three pancakes, placing shaved maple sugar and melted butter between each layer. Top with whipped cream and sprinkle with shaved maple sugar. Brown sugar may be used in place of maple sugar, if desired.

Buttermilk Puffs
1 egg
1 cup buttermilk
1 cup prepared biscuit mix
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 tablespoon sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter
Beat egg, blend in buttermilk, mix biscuit mix, soda and sugar. Add to buttermilk and egg mixture; mix just until thoroughly dampened. Stir in melted butter. Bake four extra large pan-

Buttermilk Puff Pancakes turn into a dessert when combined with chilled fruit and a dollop of whipped cream. Cultured sour cream may be used as a topping variation for the welcome winter "shortcake."

If You Never Have tasted wafer-thin pancakes in the continental style, rolled with lemon juice and fine sugar, try them—just once. In Sweden, rolled cakes such as these are served with jelly or preserves and sour cream, a Scandinavian touch that is a real delight.

cakes, using one-half cup batter for each. Pour onto medium hot griddle. When puffed up and bubbles begin to break, turn each pancake and brown on other side.

Feather-Light Pancakes
1/3 cup nonfat dry milk
3 tablespoons water
4 separated eggs
1 cup sieved cottage cheese

1 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup sifted flour
Place water in bowl. Add dry milk and beat until mixture stands in peaks. Add all other ingredients, except egg whites. Mix until smooth. Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into mixture. Drop on hot, buttered griddle. When golden brown, turn and bake on other side. Serve with syrup, jelly or fruit sauce. If a blender is available, the ingredients may be combined in it without sieving the cottage cheese. Egg whites should be whipped alone, then combined with batter.

Hot Orange Sauce Easy To Prepare

Hot Mandarin Orange Sauce is an unusual taste treat to serve with pancakes, sausage or bacon.

Juices of ordinary and mandarin oranges are mixed together and thickened with cornstarch to prepare a delicious sauce for pancakes, puddings or cake.

Mandarin Orange Sauce
1 cup orange juice
11 ounce-can mandarin oranges
1 cup water
1 tablespoon cornstarch

Bring orange juice and mandarin liquid to a boil. Dissolve cornstarch in water; stir into boiling juices. Heat five to seven minutes, stirring frequently. Stir mandarin oranges into sauce during the last minute or two of heating.

Pour hot over pancakes or other dessert. This also is an excellent fruit sauce for ice cream, served hot or cold.

Your Problems

Daughters Continue to Take Advantage of Willing Mother

BY ANNE LANDERS

DEAR ANN: I have two daughters who are running me ragged. Can you tell me what to do without getting them mad at me?

Almost every weekend they bring their children to "Mama Berta's" (that's me) so they can take trips, go to parties and be free of responsibility. It never occurs to them that Dad and I might have plans. They assume I'm strong as a mule and ready, willing and able to run after their spirited youngsters.

They also bring their mending and unfinished knitting. When they entertain they expect me to come to their homes, not as a guest, but to help cook and bake.

My husband gets mad because he says I let them take advantage of me. What can a mother say?

—Not Appreciated

Dear Not Appreciated: A mother can say "Look, Girls, I'm not a nursemaid, cook or seamstress. Please don't plop your kids on me while you go off to enjoy yourselves. Occasionally I'll offer to take them, but don't assume I have nothing else to do. Your children are your responsibility, just as you were mine. And don't invite me to your home to do your cooking and baking. I have enough of my own, thank you."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 15 and have been going steady with this fellow for a year. My folks don't like him because he rides a motor scooter and wears dark glasses, a leather jacket and boots. I don't see anything wrong with this. After all, what is a fellow supposed to wear when he rides a motor scooter—a tuxedo? He's a very careful scooter-pilot and has never had an accident.

Last night my father saw in the paper where two teenagers were seriously injured on a scooter. He read the article at the dinner table and said "No more scooter rides for you. And that ends it." Do you think this is fair?

—Cried Out

Dear Cried: If your father forbids you to ride on the scooter that should settle it. Even if it doesn't make sense to your 15-year-old noodle, accept his decision and give him peace of mind. (And I agree with Dad.)

DEAR ANN: The other day I got into a crowded elevator on my way back from coffee break. A woman who is a supervisor in our department was in the elevator with a cigaret in her mouth. As I was leaving the elevator I noticed she had burned a hole in my sweater. She noticed it at the same moment and said "Oh, I'm terribly sorry."

The cleaner tells me the sweater can be renewed for $5.50. The sweater cost $22.50, so it's worth it. Shall I ask this woman to pay for it, send her a bill in the mail or what? —Burned Up

Dear Burned: Don't send a bill in the mail. Tell her the sweater which she burned can be restored for $5.50. Ask if she'd like to pay for it. If she says "No," forget it. If she says "Yes," give her the bill when you get it. And suggest to the superintendent of the building that he post a no smoking sign in the elevator.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

New Metal Heels Mar Linoleum

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I don't know whether or not you are familiar with the new metal heels and lifts some of the shoe manufacturers are putting on high heeled shoes, but if you are, you will know what I mean when I say they are "death" on linoleum. They are marvelous insofar as not having to worry about broken heels or replacing lifts all the time, which would be a major problem with the very thin high heels that are in vogue today, but what to do about keeping my inlaid linoleum from being ruined by guests who come to my house wearing these shoes, also is quite a problem. Last evening I had my bridge club at my house, and after they left, while I was cleaning up, I noticed that my new inlaid linoleum had deep wedges in it made by the metal heels of one of my guests. I was heartsick over it. Is there anything I can do to prevent further marking of my inlaid. It was very expensive and I can't bear to have it ruined. Most of my women friends do not wear very high heels, but this one in particular always does. Would it be proper to place a small mat under her feet to prevent this happening again? Could this possibly cause offense?

Answer: Yes, I am afraid it can. The only thing I can suggest is for you to put a rug under the bridge table that will be at least large enough for the feet of all four players to rest upon. Your excuse for the rug can be that it is more comfortable, or warmer than the hard, or cold, linoleum.

HIS AND HERS —

BY MURIEL STAFFORD, GRAPHOLOGIST

HE New, of all times, all good
SHE He is younger than I

Craving for Protection

"...Our major problem is one of age. He is younger than I. Neither of us has ever been married. I lost my mother two years ago and now I'm ready to decide on 'just one man.'"

Your writing reveals emotional repression. Letters are small, cramped, and left-slanted. Where there should be a lower loop ("y," "g") you make a straight line. You are ruled by your keen, analytical mind.

Somewhere in your past, perhaps as a child, you were made to feel unloved or unwanted. You find it difficult if not impossible to believe you are loved even now so you try to be completely practical.

The downward slant of your lines of writing indicates that this repression of feeling has not brought you much happiness. Try to come out of your shell.

The degree of a writer's maturity is indicated in handwriting rather than his age in actual years. Your friend's outlook on life is as yet immature, in fact almost naive as compared to yours.

He is a kind, protective, and gentle person, but quietly set in his convictions. He has a placid resistance, avoids any kind of argument.

You do not speak of love, merely of "similar backgrounds" and "many things in common." Are you sure you have so much in common or have you gained this impression because he always says "Yes"?

His gentle nature may seem exactly what you need for reassurance since you inwardly crave protection. Don't expect him to be an intellectual challenge as well or you will be disappointed.

Miss Stafford welcomes letters from her readers. They cannot be acknowledged but the most interesting ones will be used in her column.

Flattering Colors

A lovely writes: Bright shades of clothing are the most becoming to my face, but they cause my not-too-slim women find themselves in a face-figure squeeze. And it happens to the thin, as well as the heavy.

In either instance, the way out is a smart compromise. To make it, follow this rule:

Wear colors that flatter your face, but to flatter your figure, compromise a degree or two on their brilliance. If you desire a gain in stature, wear shades with a high brilliance. Limit brilliance, if less size is your aim.

As an example, consider a dark brunet. She should wear strong colors, like lemon yellow, in order to complement her own coloring. But when she does, her oversized hips appear larger than ever. What's her compromise? Gold would be a good one, for it is bright enough to play up her face and yet deep enough to play down her hips.

In using the scheme, subtlety keys utmost effectiveness. Only be subtle, and you will be successful!

New Furniture Springs Space-Saving Surprises

As new furniture arrives in the stores this spring, look out for surprises. The best kind of surprises, because so many bright new design ideas save space. Even a wall decoration may turn out to be a table, or one table may suddenly multiply to five.

The decorative wall panel sketched backgrounds real butterflies and grasses with oriental Abaca cloth. But the mahogany frame sides are also legs for the table. The panel becomes when it's pulled down from the wall. The table is large enough for five, and there are matching benches to complete the hide-away dining group. Four folding tables topped with the wall panel's butterfly and grass decorations pull drawer-like from a large mahogany table, and a drop-leaf tea cart, which also seems to be keeping no secrets, conceals similarly decorated lap trays.

The first thing a professional decorator does to plan a room is to make a floor plan — and so can you with Elizabeth Hillyer's Furniture Arrangement Kit. Included is full explanation of how easy it is and the furniture cut-outs you need — 128 of them — plus pointers on good arrangement. Start this valuable kit toward your mailbox today — send 50 cents with your request to Elizabeth Hillyer, in care of this newspaper. Please allow approximately 3 weeks for delivery. ## Conservation Matheson — (A) — Lester Voigt, Conservation department director, reported Wednesday receipt of a check for $5,000 from Stanton W. Mead to be used for conservation. Mead is president of Consolidated Water Power and Paper company, Wisconsin Rapids.

Subject to commission approval, the department has earmarked $3,000 for development of the Mead Wildlife area in Portage, Marathon and Wood counties and $2,000 for the Wisconsin Eagle Scout forestry camp in northern Highland State forest.

relating in their own words their reaction to terrifying experiences.

It was a most interesting show, with closeups of serious faces as men and women recalled the terror of seeing guns "as big as cannons," and said that they were later suspicious of any strange face.

It has promise, this show, but a bad title. The initials mean "For Your Information," and it is going to be a bore spelling that out each time one mentions the show.

Calls Ball Park 'Too Costly'

Ald. Tucker Hits Expense, but Votes As a Sportsman

The ball park adjacent to Telulah park, purchased for $12,000 by the city council, is "rather expensive property," Ald. Austin Tucker complained Wednesday.

"For one who is sports-minded it is going to be difficult to express the courage of his convictions on this matter," said Tucker. "But I am reluctant to vote yes on this because of the amount we are paying."

Ald. Ervin Bogan ticked off three reasons why the park is a bargain. "It is ideally located. We are saving money on park facilities because they are right next door in Telulah. And we won't have any objections from the neighbors," he said.

Vote From Heart

Tucker answered that he agrees with Bogan as a sports lover. "But do all those arguments outweigh the cost?" He resolved the dilemma by voting "not from the mind, but from the heart."

Ald. Mrs. Stillings opposed the means of acquiring the park. "I don't like our piecemeal public works projects," she said. "We need an overall plan, describing what should come first, second and third."

The property involves nearly three acres immediately east of Telulah park and north of Newberry street. The land is owned by Mrs. Anna Grishaber Armstrong, who will provide a survey, abstract and title before the agreement will be closed. The diamond was included in the 1960 budget, the city clerk reported.

To Your Good Health

Slow, Steady Reducing Diet Best Way to Lose Poundage

By Joseph G. Molner, M. D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Why can a person who stays on a diet lose weight for a time and then maybe for a whole week fail to lose? — Mrs. M. L. S."

I wouldn't be surprised if this lack of uniformity in losing weight is what discourages a lot of people from following sane reducing diets. And in a reverse sort of logic, it also causes many to adopt reducing diets which really aren't very good. I'll explain.

It is not at all unusual for average-size high school boys to lose four or five or six pounds in a single afternoon of strenuous sports activity. By the next day they have gained it all back, yet—although they have healthy appetites—they haven't eaten enough extra food to make up so many pounds.

Well, where did the weight go? How did it come back?

Largely Water

The answer is that this weight, gained and lost, is largely water. Not entirely, of course. A boy in football or basketball practice uses up a lot of energy, and this energy can come from only one place: the fuel in the body. But he loses a lot of perspiration, several pounds of it. This is promptly replaced by fluid he drinks.

So you, an adult who doesn't indulge in strenuous play, still must calculate the weight of water in your system. For women, this varies with the menstrual cycle. For a few days before the period, the weight rises, because the system accumulates fluid. Take note and see if that isn't the time at which you gain weight despite your diet!

To a lesser degree, there will be variations from day to day, but they will average off and will not confuse you. Menstruation, for some women (most women, probably not at all) is the one thing which will cause a distinct temporary gain in weight for a matter of several days, and perhaps even for a week. If you realize what is happening, then you just hold to your diet, knowing that in another week you'll be back to normal on the scales.

"Popular" Diets

However, a lot of "popular" diets take advantage of the fact that water, within limits, can be lost or replaced quickly. These diets specify what you should (or shouldn't) eat. But they also prohibit salt (which tends to hold water in the system) and sometimes they even limit the amount of fluid you are supposed to drink, even non-calorie fluids such as water, unsweetened tea or black coffee.

The result is that the system is, in a very short time, dried out. A few pounds are quickly lost. It makes the diet look effective, but once the drying-out has been done, there is no further weight to be lost that way.

At this point, smart people give up the fads and crash diets and realize that the slow, steady and comfortable reducing diet is not only the best but also the only sensible way to lose weight.

Sunday TV Losing Its 'Good' Shows

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

New York — (A) — If you haven't been paying close attention lately, Sunday is gradually losing its high intellectual luster.

Only a couple of seasons back, there were even complaints that most of the so-called "good" shows were crammed into Sunday afternoon. Some of them are now departed and all sorts of odds and ends are taking their places.

Most recent entry into the Sunday afternoon sweepstakes is something called "Sunday Sports Spectacular," a 90-minute divertissement which will devote itself to a different act and Gorgeous George — sport each week.

The first program consisted of an alleged basketball game played by a troupe called the Harlem Globe Trotters and some well-rehearsed stogees. Although the two announcers persisted in treating the game as if for real, it was an exhibition falling somewhere between a trapeze act and Gorgeous George — and just full of chuckles, if the announcers' mirth wasn't canned.

Interesting Show

CBS turned up with another new show for our Sunday delectation, this one at 10 a. m. (of all curious hours) is called "FYI" and is dedicated to the exploration of social problems. The first show was concerned with the victims of rather routine crimes — holdups, robberies, muggings — and had the victims

Lunt-Fontanne Drama at Pabst Gets High Praise

Milwaukee — (A) — The first family of the American theater came home to Wisconsin Tuesday night to open "The Visit"—an occasion Milwaukee critics agreed produced the finest drama of this or any season in the past decade.

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne head a brilliant company of 30 in the play which will run through the rest of the week at the Pabst theater.

Friedrich Duerrenmatt's play about the return of an immensely rich courtesan to revenge herself on her first lover, and the deadly comedy of a small town's corruption drew review phrases like "a macabre scherzo, as beautiful as an evil dream."

Critical summary: A must for "anyone who yearns for magnificent theater and the unsurpassable talents of Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne."

Missionary's Son to Speak at Trinity

Bowers also will speak to Sunday school groups. The afternoon program will be followed by a supper.

Goetz to Produce Two Bible Dramas for TV

Art Carney Scheduled in Pair of Specs During Next Nine Days; First on Friday

BY JINGO

William Goetz, famous motion picture producer, will make two Bible dramas for ABC-TV's coming fall schedule. Both will be an hour in length and will be based on the life of David. Filming will be from locations in Israel. Goetz produced "Sayonara," which won several academy awards in 1957 and "Song of Bernadette," an Oscar winner in 1947.

Art Carney probably will go down as the television personality of the 1959-60 season. He's already starred in a host of specials, notably "Our Town," and returns for two major productions in the next nine days. It's done through the miracle of video tape, of course.

"The Man in the Dog Suit," his vehicle for Friday night, is a revival of the 1958 Broadway play of the same name. Hume Cronyn starred as Oliver Walling, the bank teller, in the original version.

The story pictures the bank teller as a meek fellow who dreams of a better life than his lot with obnoxious in-laws and his onerous job. The dreams come after he puts on a masquerade dog suit, a courage crutch.

A week from Saturday Carney will test the full range of his talent by staging a 1-man show in "Call Me Back."

The story's about a likeable chap who has lost his wife, custody of his young daughter, his girl friend, his job, everything he holds dear. He resorts to telephoning people who once were important in his life and the emotions run from fear to hope, from humor to hopelessness.

Jingo Lingo: CBS-TV will rebroadcast the first 45 minutes of "Population Explosion" at 8:30 p.m. next Thursday. The second 45 minutes will feature new material, including statements by leading Catholic and Episcopal clerics.

Edward G. Robinson and David Wayne will play title roles in Stephen Vincent Benet's "The Devil and Daniel Webster" on NBC-TV Sunday, Feb. 14. In case you're confused: Robinson's Webster, Wayne the Devil. You remember the short story. New England farmer Jabez Stone sells his soul to the devil for material prosperity and Daniel Webster pleads before a jury of demons to save him from having to pay.

The appearance of Maureen O'Hara tonight in the title role of "Mrs. Miniver," has an element of curiosity that makes it difficult to resist. Will she do as well as Greer Garson in the wartime movie?

Danny Thomas guest stars for Lucy and Desi Friday night. He'll bring along "his entire TV family." Collegiate football gasps its last Saturday afternoon with the 11th annual Senior Bowl game on NBC-TV.

Weekly Food Buys

Pork Still Good Budget Balancer in Fox Cities

Pork and eggs lead the best buys of the week in Fox Cities stores, with several markets also featuring specials on canned goods.

A quick scan of price tags in meat departments shows that pork steak may be had for 35 cents a pound, semiboneless butt roast pork as low as 29 cents a pound and fresh loin roasts at 33 cents a pound.

Skinless pork links cost 29 cents for a 12-ounce package, thick-sliced bacon 69 cents for two pounds and another market is selling four pounds of their thin-sliced bacon for 99 cents.

Also widely featured in meats are round steak, rib roasts, sirloin and porterhouse steaks and lamb all in good supply and expected to remain so this year.

Eggs Plentiful

Eggs lead the department of agriculture's list of plentiful foods for January, with the seasonal increase in production already underway. A sales leader in one Fox Cities store, ungraded eggs are priced at three dozen for 99 cents.

Indications are that egg production will not equal the record volume of a year ago because the number of potential layers is below the 363 million on hand at the start of 1959, the department points out.

Plentiful foods include grapefruit, apples, oranges, cranberries, sweet potatoes and onions. Best vegetable buys are beans, broccoli, carrots, Chinese cabbage, endive, escarole, Florida celery, yellow onions, radishes, sweet potatoes.

Other Items

Housewives will find prices a little high on cucumbers, green onions, tomatoes and egg plant.

Frozen strawberries are good buys this week at some frozen food counters and frozen vegetables may be purchased at sale prices when bought by quantity packages.

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

POTPOURRI — Reo Riopelle of Green Bay heard of some hunters who bagged a deer which they claimed was the biggest one ever shot in Wisconsin.

Investigation showed that they had arrived at its weight by weighing on truck scales. Their means: Weigh the car and the deer together, then subtract the registered weight of the car.

Trouble was, they forgot to allow for the water in the radiator, the gas in the tank, the oil, the spare tire, the tools, the rifles, ammunition and the four men who sat in the car while it was being weighed.

Among the silliest reasons for quarrels are the little ones, which often grow between neighbors. The prize for such quarrelsomeness must be given to two adjacent communities of Italy — Treviglio and Caravaggio. Their squabble has lasted 700 years.

One day in the year circa 1215, a cat was strolling somewhere along the borderline between the two villages. Caravaggio residents claimed the cat should really be theirs because its head was pointed toward that town, but the villagers of Treviglio, who also wanted the cat, said that the direction of his head didn't make any difference. The cat belonged to them, they insisted.

In a fight which ensued, 10 people were killed or wounded. And the village of Treviglio won the battle and the cat. In due time the cat died and was stuffed and placed in one of the ancient buildings of the town.

One night not long ago, a band of folks from Caravaggio slipped into Treviglio and stole the cat. Trouble is brewing again and a court suit is in the offing.

The official state highway map of South Dakota should have been proof-read before it was okayed for the printer. A blurb in praise of the state urges the traveler to visit that state because of the "unfettered air" there. A "fetter" is a shackle for the feet. Apparently someone in South Dakota has taken the shackles off of the feet of the air.

One kind of a person displeases me more than any other, and that is a "professional southerner" whose outlook is localized and provincial and who continues to wave the confederate flag and that flag only.

I have known many professional southerners. It is impossible to carry on a conversation with any of them without age-old differences popping up. "The South will rise again," is a frequent observation — and this as well as similar "Solid South" feelings are wearying.

The professional southerner goes into ecstasy over such songs of the south as "Dixie." For example, it is the custom for southerners everywhere to stand on their chairs and wave their handkerchiefs when "Dixie" is played.

But most of the songs of the south were written by northerners. "Dixie" was written by Dan Emmett, an Ohioan, who scribbled it in New York as a minstrel show finale.

Stephen Foster was born in Pennsylvania and never ever got south of the Mississippi river. He wrote such songs as bring tears to the eyes of the professional southerner: "Old Black Joe," "Swanee River," "My Old Kentucky Home," and "Camptown Races."

Another song which makes the pro-southerner weep happily is "Nothing Could Be Finer than to Be in Carolina in the Morning." It was written by Gus Kahn of Brooklyn.

The state song of Virginia is "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny," but it was written by James Bland of Flushing, New York. And "Everything Is Peaches Down in Georgia" was written by a dandyman from Boston.

There are 50,000 inhabited places in the United States, each one with a name. Some of my favorites: Ooliah, La.; Ketchi, Kan.; Doctor, Md.; Yell, Ark.; Utsaladdy, Wash.; Monumental, Ore.; Nimblewill, Ga.; Sheefly, Ore.; Greasy Cove, Minn.; and Rumpus Cove, Tenn.

Somewhere in the world—perhaps in your attic—is an opal of fantastic value. It once was owned by the Roman senator Nonis in Circa 30 B. C. and was even then valued at something like $1 million. The opal which was still around 170 years later has not been heard of since.

A recent dissertation here about the lack of information on today's calendars elicited much comment among readers and not a few gifts of calendars to me, but none of them did everything which I hoped it would.

One of the best came from Al Broehm's department store in Winneconne. It not only identifies dates like today's but shows the birthday and the year of birth of presidents, statesmen and other notables.

March 16, 1882; Fulton's historic first steamboat trip, Aug. 18, 1897) and much other valuable information.

But my original complaint stands: Calendars could do much more than that; it is their job to be informative and complete—it seems to me—and I still don't know when Kamehameha day is nor when Woolworth opened his first store, nor what day it was in 1936 when Lake Michigan froze over completely. No, sir! No, ma'am! Calendars don't do their full job!

New Methodist Church Plans First Services

Congregation to Receive Members Sunday, Jan. 17

First services for the newly organized Methodist church on Appleton's north side will be held at 10:30 Sunday morning.

The congregation is renting the building and facilities of the Seventh Day Adventist congregation at N. Division street and W. Capitol drive.

Church school classes will be held at the same hour. The Rev. Stanford Strosahl, superintendent of the Appleton district of the Methodist church, will preach on "In the Hand of God." The Rev. Clifford Fritz, Waukesha, conference treasurer and chairman of the extension committee, will conduct the worship service.

Sunday school classes will be held for children from kindergarten age through junior high school. Mrs. Lloyd Stead has been elected temporary Sunday school superintendent until the congregation is officially organized at a conference to be held Sunday, Feb. 21. Randall Royce has been elected temporary treasurer and Wilbur Hack is temporary financial secretary.

Receive New Members

A nominating committee was elected at the organizational meeting Sunday and will bring a slate of officers to the conference. Committee chairman is the Rev. Mr. Strosahl. Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Finger, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Graf, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Throne and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Plant are committee members.

A meeting will be held at the Appleton district parsonage, 1617 N. Durkee street, at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 14 for preparation for New Member Sunday.

For members coming from the First Methodist church, there will be a commissioning service at the 9:15 a.m. worship service Sunday Jan. 17. New members will be received at the 10:30 a.m. service.

Temporary Preachers

Six years ago the trustees of the First Methodist church purchased land on the north side of Appleton designed to accommodate a future church. First Methodist has been instrumental in establishing the new church through its extension committee.

The Rev. Mr. Fritz, Waukesha, will preach Jan. 17 and the Rev. Mr. Strosahl will conduct the worship service Sunday, Jan. 24. The Rev. Kenneth Engelman, associate pastor of the First Methodist church, will conduct the worship service and preach the sermon. Other ministers will handle services until a minister is appointed. He is expected about mid-February.

Temporary chairmen of various commissions and committees which have been appointed until the conference Feb. 21 are Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Finger, membership and evangelism commission; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Mallory, worship commission; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Smith, commission on education; and Guy Barlow, pastoral relations committee. Smith has served as secretary of the various organizing meetings.

Legislators Eat Apples From Door County

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Gov. Nelson, members of the state legislature, other state officials and capitol visitors Wednesday nibbled Door county apples and drank Door county apple juice, courtesy of Assemblyman Frank N. Griggs of Sturgeon Bay.

Graess told the governor he carried his home country products to Madison because Nelson failed to win his bet with the governor of Washington in last week's Rose Bowl game—a wheel of Wisconsin cheese against a bushel of Washington apples.

The fruit and the juice, Graess added, come from "the contented trees" of his constituency.

Union Goes on Strike at Neenah Firm

tions broke down. The strike has been sanctioned by the international union which had representatives assisting in the bargaining sessions.

About 200 pickets were on hand this morning at the Winneconne avenue plant and also at the company's new plant under construction at the southwest end of Neenah. Construction crews honored the picket lines at the new plant.

The pickets are working on a 4-hour basis and will work around the clock, according to the shop committee.

350 Members
The company has about 400 workers of which 350 are union members, the shop committee stated. Management and clerical personnel are not being kept from entering the offices.

The union said the company's present proposal is for a 2-year agreement. The union representatives declined to state the specific contract details at issue.

Membership meetings to inform the union of the negotiation progress were held Wednesday night with the night shift and this morning for the day crews.

The following statement was issued at noon today by E. J. Aylward, chairman of the foundry company:

"Although the labor agreement expired only as of Dec. 31, 1959, the union committee had threatened walkouts as early as Jan. 2, 1960, because of union insistence on an all-union shop. The company has endeavored to do everything possible to reach a peaceful settlement but believes in the principle that every man should be free to join or not to join a labor organization. The company has offered to retain a maintenance of union membership and checkoff.

"Because of the many phone calls we have received from employees, protesting the strike, and desiring to return to work, the company is determined to keep operating. We will use all legitimate means to preserve as many jobs as possible for those employees and families who would otherwise be adversely affected. Consequently, every possible precaution is being taken to insure the safety of those many employees who are desirous of returning to work.

"Employees have been notified by letter of the final offer made last night to the union's bargaining committee. Average earnings are now $2.38 per hour. The company offered to increase these rates 20 cents per hour over a two year period with a 10 cent per hour increase effective immediately. In addition, changes were made in the incentive system to provide additional earnings for some incentive workers. With the proposed wage increases, the company also offered addi-

Seventeen Appleton Post Office employees have been awarded pins for safe on-the-job driving. Among those with 10 or more years of safe driving are, from left, Harold Mollon, parcel post, 13 years; Alvin Schneider, special delivery, 26 years; Robert Shortt, mounted route, 11 years; and Roger Caldie, parcel post, 10 years. The pins are being presented by Gordon Schulze, assistant superintendent of mails. Absent were Chester Riesenweber, rural carrier, 25 years, and Edwin Kirsling, rural carrier, 11 years.

School Demands Cause Property Tax Increase

Proportion of Payment in State, Local Government Load 32 Per Cent

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Largely because of higher school service financing demands, the proportion of property tax payments in the total state and local government tax load is increasing.

Last year nearly 51 per cent of all state and local tax revenue was represented in property tax collections. A year earlier the ratio was 49.3 per cent.

Last year the schools took 32.6 per cent of all state-local tax dollars, higher than in most recent years.

Shares Decline
The shares used by other governmental services, state, county and municipal, declined correspondingly.

The total of state and local tax collections for last year rose from $773,042,000 to a new all-time high aggregate of $816,635,000.

The actual local property tax rates and the true value tax rates as computed by the state property tax supervision department also are gradually rising.

Base Rises
The 1958 state-wide actual property tax rate was put at $43.59, against $42.23 for the previous year.

As the state computes full value, the true state-wide tax rate last year was $24.16 against $23.48 for the previous year.

The rise was in the face of an increase in the true value of the state's taxable properties of almost a billion dollars during the year, to a new and historic peak of $17,144,867,025.

Bohl is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Robert Ford, Minneapolis; one son, Carl, Wausau; two brothers, John and Charles, both of Appleton; one sister, Mrs. Anna Gosse, Appleton; three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Wilbur H. Draeger
Wilbur H. Draeger, 47, of 1727 W. Winnebago street, died at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday after a short illness. He was born March 15, 1912, in Oconto county.

Draeger was a garage foreman at Krambo-Kroeger. Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Wichmann Funeral home with the Rev. F. C. Reuter in charge. Burial will be in Highland Memorial park. Friends may call at the funeral home after 4 p.m. Friday until the time of service.

Survivors include the widow, his mother, Mrs. Edward Draeger, Appleton; and two brothers, Everett, Appleton and Edmund, Seymour.

Brown Services
Funeral services for Mrs. Amanda Brown, 77, of 1340 W. Pine street, who died unexpectedly early Wednesday morning, will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at St. Matthew Lutheran church. Burial will be in Highland Memorial park. Friends may call at the Wichmann Funeral home after 3 p.m. Friday until 10 a.m. Saturday and then at the church.

Survivors include two brothers, Herman Wachholz and Walter Wachholz, and two sisters Mrs. Augusta Pekowsky and Mrs. Mary Rosanke, all of Westfield.

Bargainers Get Price Hike for Chicago Milk

20 Dairy Co-ops Negotiate Increase Of $18 Million

Feeder Dairy cooperatives, an organization of 20 operating and bargaining farm co-ops have negotiated a price hike for dairymen in the Chicago milk market which will mean up to $18 million more in 1960.

Earlier in the year a few isolated milk producers in southern Wisconsin requested a $1.50 a hundredweight increase for milk used for bottling and cream. They threatened a strike if demands were not met.

Under leadership of Paul Affeldt, Pure Milk Products co-op president and president of Federated Dairy cooperatives, 20 co-ops joined into the single bargaining unit. The 20 provide 90 per cent of milk on the Chicago market.

Results of the negotiations will mean an estimated blend price for milk of about 34 cents per hundredweight.

Class I price under the new super pool, which does not include the northeast order 116 (this area), will be $4.35 for all months of the year except May and June, when it will drop 20 cents. Class II price was increased 10 cents per hundred except on ice cream and ice cream mix. Class IV price will be 10 cents per hundred higher during the last six months of 1960.

New regulations will be in effect until Dec. 31, 1960.

Alter Union Wage Scale City Contractors Will Have to Pay 10 Cents More

Contractors for city jobs will have to follow the new labor union rates raised about 10 cents an hour over last year and adopted for state contracts, the city council decided Wednesday.

Wilbert Raatz, Menasha, representative for the Appleton building trades unions, submitted a schedule for operating engineers and common laborers, showing a pay range from $2.50 for common labor to $3.50 for more skilled work. Raatz appeared at Tuesday's board of public works meeting.

The wages will be included in city contracts advertised for after Jan. 6.

Ald. Pointer explained that the rates will become effective in the state April 1, on the basis of a 3-year contract signed earlier. This year there is no differential between urban and rural rates as there has been previously, Pointer said.

Building construction trade recommendations will be made later, Raatz told the board. They will be included in contract provision when they are available, Raatz was told.

Man, 20, Killed As Bulldozer Skids, Overturns

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay—A young Green Bay father was killed instantly when the bulldozer he was operating rolled over on him shortly after the start of work this morning.

Douglas Nuss, 20, Green Bay, was crushed to death when the tractor rolled downhill on land being leveled for a residential development in the suburban town of Preble.

Investigation by undersheriff William Rogers indicated that Nuss, working alone in the area at the time, had resumed grading work after 8 a.m. when the tractor apparently went out of control.

Going over the brink of the hill being leveled, the bulldozer skidded side ways on the frozen ground, then it did a complete turnover, traveling an estimated 30 feet on the slope, and landed back on its tracks. The operator was crushed when tractor was upside down.

Young Nuss was married and had an infant son.

A resolution to have the regional planning commission recommend whether to extend Franklin or Washington street was submitted by Ald. Austin Tucker at Wednesday's council meeting.

Tucker said a "considered and professional" opinion is needed on the situation, to decide which westward route would be "most practical and desirable in providing for the immediate and future needs and improvements of the city." The resolution was referred to the street and sanitation committee.

Ald. D. A. Ogilvie requested a traffic count at E. College and Rankin streets and E. College and Meade streets. Edison school children's safety in crossing the avenue has been lessened since the new

Dog Control Arrangement Questioned

Ald. Malmstrom Asks If Humane Society Function Is Legal

The legality of permitting the humane society to act as city dog officer was questioned by Ald. Malmstrom at Wednesday night's council meeting.

Malmstrom said he thought new court cases make it illegal to hand over money to private groups. He said he would look up the cases and inform City Atty. Jury of them.

Jury said, as far as he knew, the city action was within the law.

Dog 'Control'
Ald. Mrs. Stillings protested the original name of the council committee handling the problem. "As much as I may have opposed some aldermen," she said "I would never call one of them a dog. I suggest we call the committee the 'dog control committee.'"

The committee report extended the humane society's dog control activities until March 1 and notified the society its shelter lease would not be extended beyond the 10-year Feb. 14, 1961, limit.

Chairman Sealed
Ald. Tucker chided committee chairman Ald. Priebe for not informing of the meeting Tuesday, as he had requested by letter. Priebe apologized.

Tucker also said it was unfair not to inform the society of the specific duties of the dog officer. "They were under the impression, apparently," they would like a detailed program to describe how they could best carry out their job."

Mayor Mitchell said the duties of the dog officer are clearly outlined in city ordinances.

bridge opened, Ogilvie said. The resolution was sent to the public safety committee.

Ogilvie also requested a storm sewer to alleviate the flooding problem in the Belaire park area.

Sanitary sewer, water mains, grading and graveling were requested by Ald. Ertl on the extension of N. Outagamie, Gillett, Nicholas and Douglas streets north to W. Glendale avenue. Curb and gutter and hot sheet on W. Brewster street from N. Summit street west to present installations also were requested.

A 38-lot residential American Land Inc. plat at the northwest corner of E. Wisconsin avenue and Ballard road, certified by the state director of regional planning and the highway commission, was submitted for approval.

Russians Claim New Variety of Apple

Moscow—Soviet scientists say they have crossed American and Russian apples to produce a new variety that can be "preserved fresh for 370 days." The report did not specify the mode of preservation.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the variety, called the Gareev hybrid, resulted from a cross between the American Superb, which it said can be preserved 225 days, and the Russian Grushovka Vernenskaya. It said the new apple averaged 4 1/2 ounces.

Scientists at the Kirghiz Academy of Sciences in the mountainous Kirghiz republic, where the Gareev hybrid was developed, said it can thrive at altitudes up to 6,000 feet.

Aldermen Vote Engineer Study Of Sewer System

Audience Overflows Chambers To Protest Basement Flooding

Neenah — Immediate action on securing consulting engineers for a comprehensive study of the Neenah storm and sanitary sewer situation was ordered by the council Wednesday night after a 90-minute public hearing.

About 80 persons whose basements had been turned into what one man called septic tanks were on hand to repeated sewer back-ups after heavy rains.

The latest back-up was the night of Dec. 27 when a heavy rainfall on top of several inches of snow caused an extensive flooding of basements throughout the city but heaviest in the sixth ward at the southwest corner of Neenah.

Residents of that area detailed damages running to several hundreds of dollars to furnaces, washing machines, laundry dryers, home freezers and items stored in the basements.

Leads Questioning
Ald. Carl Coenen, Sixth ward representative, one of the victims of several feet of water and sewage that night, led the questioning on what will be done to help these people and prevent further backups.

One trouble cited by Coenen is that too many new areas were being tapped into sewers which already were too small and that larger sewer pipes in the outlying areas are sending the sewage into pipes that get smaller and have more inlets as they get closer to the sewage disposal plant.

Mayor Bell summarized many of the remarks by declaring the sanitary sewers were adequate for the normal flow of sewage but could not take the heavy amount of rain and surface water that got into them during heavy downpours, resulting in the sewage backups into the homes.

Wayne G. Bryan, public works director, said one trouble is that the engineers do not have a vote on the council "and probably are poor salesmen." He told of one plan being turned down by the state board of health in 1949 and of the council five years ago turning down the proposals of his department regarding the sewer situation.

As for the Cleveland street lift pump, we said before we needed more capacity in our pumps but we got no money. The Reddin street situation is one of the worst but we got no money, he reviewed.

"Will Get Worse"
"This condition will continue to get worse," Bryan predicted. "This is the first evidence of a council really getting involved."

Ald. Donald Gomoll then moved that the matter be referred to the committee on public works to immediately hire a firm of consulting engineers for a thorough study.

His motion passed unanimously.

Mayor Bell told the vast audience that overflowed into the hallway that the council plans to take what steps it can for immediate temporary relief "but we cannot decide in 10 days to embark on an expensive program without knowing where we are going."

"This happens in times of great runoff and we want to find out the whys and the causes and this will take time. The sewage disposal plant can tell within 20 minutes after a heavy storm by the increased flowage it receives."

Ways to Correct
He listed four ways into which the surface water after rain storms was getting into the sanitary sewers. One was from the drain tiles and leaves troughs at the home. The extent of this would take considerable time to investigate.

A second was from water standing in the streets which flows into the manhole through the covers. The city is changing this immediately by securing a different type of manhole cover.

A third was from leaky sewers and this too will take time for a thorough study, the mayor said.

The fourth was that in some cases there may be cross connections between the sanitary and storm sewers.

Approximately 200 Pickets massed around the Neenah Foundry plant on Winneconne avenue today as the International Molders and Foundry Workers union struck the plant in a deadlocked dispute on the issues of union security and wages. Pickets also were on duty at the new Neenah Foundry plant under construction in southwestern Neenah and construction workers honored the picket lines.

Bell Assures Sixth Ward Sewer Action

Some Projects May be Deferred To Help Finance

Neenah — Mayor Bell assured Sixth ward residents Wednesday night that projects such as the $4,000 cemetery fence repair and "other things can be deferred" to take care of the sewage backup problem.

Eight questions were directed to the city officials at the council session Wednesday night, including what is to be done regarding the sewage received from the Lakeview mill of Kimberly-Clark.

The mayor replied the Lakeview mill matter is a contract with the sewage commission which has been approved by the state board of health.

Asked about the sewage from the new shopping center, Wayne G. Bryan, public works director, said he imagined it would be dumped into the Green Bay road sewer.

Ald. Carl Coenen, who raised the questions on behalf of his Sixth ward residents, said this would bring it into the Sixth ward which has been heaviest hit with sewer backups in the last several years.

City Atty. Charles Schaller explained what was involved in the payment of taxes under protest and that suit must be started against the city within a year after the payment of the tax under protest and the reasons cited as to why the tax was illegal.

Coenen pointed to the troubles many persons had as the result of the recent sewer backup and of the health problems it could create from children becoming ill as the result of damp basements.

One woman wondered about a typhoid epidemic and said her children's school books had to be dried out from the sewage and water that had stood several feet deep in her basement.

Opinion Halts Lake Fly Control Appropriation

Assistant District Attorney Informs Board Research Fund Use 'Illegal'

Oshkosh — An opinion from the Winnebago county district attorney's office Wednesday afternoon blocked the county board's $5,000 appropriation to lake fly research corporation.

The county board voted the $5,000 appropriation Nov. 2 but decided Tuesday to hold up payment until an opinion could be obtained from the district attorney's office on its legality.

Assistant Dist. Atty. J. V. Sitter's letter to the board stated: "It is our conclusion that such an appropriation is beyond the power of the county board and disbursement of tax monies for this purpose would be illegal."

Sitter added that a search of the statutes revealed no enabling authority for such an appropriation.

"The board could appropriate money for control of insect and other vermin upon advice of the county agent that an emergency exists because of the destruction of farm lands, livestock or crops in the county," his letter explained.

In that case the board could select from its membership a committee to take steps to suppress or control such pests.

"A lake fly nuisance sought to be controlled is not destructive to farm lands, livestock or crops. No emergency exists. The lake involved is not wholly in the county. The committee expending funds is not composed of board members and the board would have little or no control over actual spending of funds," Sitter concluded.

In the light of the opinion the board again delayed payment of the $5,000 until a resolution could be introduced nullifying the contribution voted in November. County Clerk Nell A. Hoffmann was directed to notify Lake Fly Research corporation of the board's decision.

An Overflow Crowd Filled in the Neenah council chambers and extended into the hallway and down the stairs as Neenah residents, largely from the Sixth ward, protested the flooding of their basements Dec. 27 when sewers backed up and water did thousands of dollars of damage to homes and equipment. The aldermen listened to the protests for 90 minutes and then voted to secure an engineering firm to make a survey of the conditions as the first step in a prevention program.

Jury Upheld On Crash Suit Negligence

Supreme Court Reverses Change Made by Judge

Madison — The supreme court Tuesday upheld a jury's decision as to the amount of negligence in the collision of two semi-trailer trucks on Highway 41 in the town of Menasha on Nov. 25, 1957, in which both drivers were killed.

The jury had found that Marvin Steiner, route 2, Chilton, driver for the Packer City Transit line, Green Bay, was 90 per cent negligent and that Cleo D. Evjem, Rochester, Minn., driver for the Sizer Grain Service of that city, was 10 per cent negligent.

Changes Verdict
Circuit Judge H. F. Arps changed that jury verdict and ruled that Steiner was 100 per cent negligent. This finding was reversed by the state supreme court which ruled that there was evidence that the Minnesota driver could have been negligent.

The decision was on three companion cases. Continental Casualty company, insurers of Packer City Transit Line for workmen's compensation, may recover the full amount of $11,000 paid into the state workmen's compensation fund from the insurers for the Sizer Grain Service, even though the Packer City driver was 90 per cent negligent, as the result of the supreme court verdict.

Still pending in the lower courts is a case involving payment of the loss of the cargo, a truck load of frozen chickens, being carried by Sizer Grain Service.

School Case
The state supreme court reversed Judge Arps in the case involving the Winnebago county school committee and the city of Oshkosh school district.

State Supt. of Public Instruction George Watson had attached some territory to the city of Oshkosh district. Later the county school committee ordered it detached and attached to School District No. 3, town of Oshkosh.

Arps dismissed the action brought by the city of Oshkosh, agreeing with the county committee he had no jurisdiction in the case because such an action could not be initiated by the city.

The supreme court, in its reversal, contended Oshkosh had the right to appeal and thus remanded the case to circuit court for trial on its merits.

Defective Wiring Causes Car Fire

Oshkosh — A car owned by Kenneth Brandt, 18, of 430 E. Spring street, Appleton, was damaged by fire at the Valley Fair shopping center Wednesday night. The fire caused by defective heater wiring department dispatched to extinguish the blaze.

Board Reverses Self, OK's Welfare Space

Law Library in Courthouse to Lose Area For 1-Room Enlargement of County Agency

Oshkosh — Reversing its decision for the second time, the Winnebago county board voted Wednesday afternoon to go ahead with plans to remodel a portion of the law library for use by the county welfare department.

On Sept. 15, 1959, the board decided to transfer $20,000 from the county's general fund to the courthouse remodeling fund to provide for remodeling of the east room of the law library to provide additional office space for the welfare department. Both facilities are located on the fourth floor of the courthouse.

At the Tuesday afternoon session a motion to complete the transfer of funds was lost for lack of a two-thirds vote. Of the 48 supervisors, 28 voted for the resolution and 20 voted against.

Asks Reconsideration
Supv. Allan Elkvall, Neenah, Wednesday afternoon asked reconsideration of the fund transfer. Then the supervisors agreed to do so by a 26-18 vote.

During the lengthy and sometimes heated discussion that followed, Supv. Herbert Pittz, Oshkosh, asked what objections had risen since the board's unanimous decision in September to take steps to provide space for the welfare department at the expense of the law library.

Supv. Max Carpenter, town of Rushford, suggested that the welfare department wanted the "windowed space" of the law library room.

Voicing many supervisors' objections to the "cubbyholes" planned by the welfare department, Supv. Arthur Struensee, Oshkosh, suggested that since the city of Oshkosh was considering conversion of the high school building into a city hall upon completion of the new high school, some welfare offices could be transferred.

"I don't believe welfare service is going to get any larger," he said, and suggested tabling the resolution for a year.

Attorneys Against Move
Streunsee and Oliver Thompson, Neenah, warned that attorneys were not in favor of moving the law library, which is considered one of the three

Vote Down Motion To Study Closing of Veterans' Office

Oshkosh — A motion to appoint a committee to study closing of the veterans service office in the Twin Cities was defeated by the Winnebago county board Wednesday afternoon. The motion was made by Supv. John Wallace, Jr., of Oshkosh.

Citing the few house calls and small correspondence out of the Neenah-Menasha office, Wallace asked the feasibility of closing the office on the basis of need. Other supervisors protested the action, pointing to the number of office calls made at the Twin City office. Approximately one-third of the county's veterans live in the Neenah-Menasha area.

The veterans' service officer spends only part of his working week in the Twin City office and only parttime clerical help is utilized.

sheriff's department was notified at 7:53 p.m. and town fire department dispatched to extinguish the blaze.

New Members of the Menasha Board of Education is Elmer Quayle, 719 Broad street. He was appointed by Mayor R. G. Du Charme to complete the term of Robert Cole who resigned. The term expires June 30, 1961.

Toeppler Jars 701 In Classic Wheel

Association Secretary Hits Season's 4th Honor Total; Yankee Paper Slams 1,151

Neenah — Clarence Toeppler, Neenah police captain and secretary of the Neenah City Bowling association, thundered a 701 national honor count series in the Fox Valley Classic bowling league Wednesday night at Lakeroad lanes.

Toeppler, who bowls for the Haase and Drews team, had games ranging from 218 to 250. The latter copped the night's top honor.

The association secretary powered a 705 national total Jan. 20, 1957, as he and Charles Tessendorf swept first place in the doubles division of the Neenah City bowling association tourney.

Fourth Honor Set

The 701 was the fourth national count of the year in the Twin Cities and the first of 1960. The others were turned in by Arnie Zuelke (719), Bob Hogan (704) and Herb Kramer (711). Zuelke's total also was bowling in the Classic wheel.

Sharing the spotlight with Toeppler was the Yankee Paper team which jolted a giant 1,151 game. It finished with 2,976 for three lines.

"Rusty" Schreiber hammered 244-648, Joe Spilski 243-648, Elmer Schultz 630, Harvey Badtke 246-623, Earl Haase 237-614, Charles Munsch 608, Ray Rehbein 233-608, and Wally Moore 602.

The Yellow Jacket maintains first place by seven games with its 31-11 record. Ethel Martin of the Teitz Insurance team toppled a 219 game and 543 set in the Hi Neighbor circuit Wednesday night at Lakeroad.

LaVerne Birkholz had a 197 single. Marten's Dairy (314-184) is the pacesetter by one game.

Zephyrs Rank No. 1 in State Prep Ratings

Head 'Middle Six'; Racine, Marinette Top Other Sections

Menasha — St. Mary has been ranked No. 1 in the "Middle Six" of the first state Catholic prep basketball ratings announced today by the Campion News Bureau at Prairie du Chien.

The Zephyrs, who have 10-0, are listed ahead of Milwaukee Notre Dame (9-0) Wausau Newman (7-1) Eau Claire Regis (4-3) West De Pere Penning, (3-2) and Waukesha Memorial (5-3).

Racine St. Catherine, defending state champion, tops the "Big Six" with 11-0. La Crosse Aquinas has 6-3, Milwaukee Don Bosco 7-2, Campion 6-4, Milwaukee Mesmer 6-2 and Milwaukee Marquette 6-3.

Marinette Catholic Central (7-2) heads the "Little Six." Both of the losses were to St. Mary. Little Chute St. John is ranked second with its 4-4 mark, followed by Mauston Madonna, Lima Sacred Heart Beloit Catholic and Burlington St. Mary.

A Winter Ice Shove has piled up sheets of ice along the shoreline of Lake Winnebago in the Payne's point area south of Neenah, damaging some piers and boat lifts. However, the shove hasn't threatened any residences as the spring shoves often do when they pile up mountains of crumbling ice.

Games Friday:

Wrightstown at Hortonville.
Reedsville at Omro.
Hilbert at Winneconne.
Freedom at Bear Creek.
Shiocton at Denmark.

Second and third place teams will try to snap the 3-way deadlock for first place in the Little Nine conference as the squads swing back into league action after the holiday layoff.

Hortonville, Reedsville and Shiocton are currently tied for the lead with 4-1 records. Right on their heels are three teams in a tie for the runner-up spot with 3-2 marks. These are Bear Creek, Freedom and Omro.

Games Friday find Hortonville entertaining Wrightstown, Reedsville will go to Omro, Shiocton will travel to Denmark, Bear Creek will entertain Freedom and Hilbert will be at Winneconne.

Wrightstown is winless in five outings and is not expected to give Hortonville much trouble. The Polar Bears pulled the loop upset by downing Reedsville in its last outing.

Omro will try to stay in contention and is looking for its second straight win after an unexpected loss to Winneconne. Reedsville will be a tough customer for Omro.

Hilbert and Winneconne both have 1-4 records and the winner will have a chance to take a step up in the league standings.

The Freedom - Bear Creek battle shapes up as one of the top games. Both teams need the win to stay in the running and protect their second place ranking.

Shiocton may get trouble from Denmark since the Danes have lost three close games after opening the league campaign with a pair of victories. Losses include a 1 - pointer to Reedsville, by seven to Bear Creek and by five to Omro.

Neenah — Fresh from a thrilling 72-71 win over Appleton in its last appearance, Neenah resumes Mid-Eastern conference competition here Friday night against Two Rivers.

Scoring the last 12 points of the game, the Red and White made its finest comeback in several seasons to defeat a Terror club which is highly regarded in the Fox River Valley conference.

A disappointing 1-3 in the conference, the Rockets attempt to make hay at the expense of a Two Rivers squad

Officers of the Tri-City Boating club were installed at the first meeting of the new year Wednesday night at the Whiting boathouse. Standing, left to right, are Ollie Evans, vice commodore; A. J. Sonnentag, commodore; and Robert G. Pagel, past commodore. Mrs. Clarence Miller, secretary, is seated. Gifford Danke, treasurer, was absent.

Bluejays Trek to Shawano; Rockets Battle Two Rivers

which started with a flourish but which since has fallen flat on its face.

Impressive Wins
Moving into league play with seven lettermen on its roster and impressive preseason wins over Plymouth, Manitowoc and Sheboygan North (over the latter two by 30 and 15 points respectively), the Raiders were expected to cause quite a stir in league circles.

They started out that way, winning by 11 over a Shawano squad which since then has blossomed into quite a contender. The second time out the Purple and Gold was upset by Menasha 63-49 and three more defeats have followed.

Avenges Setback
Kaukauna made it two in a row and just before the holidays, the Lake Michigan city five showed signs of coming back by holding high-scoring Kimberly to 58 points in a 58-50 loss. Manitowoc made it four straight defeats, avenging the earlier setback with a convincing 67-49 win Tuesday night.

The Raiders, who do not have good size, must depend on hot shooting to pull them through but they haven't been getting the big totals, in fact they rank seventh in conference offense. A 13 or 15-point effort often is a night's individual high.

After being held to eight points by Kaukauna in the last start, Neenah's Jack Anderson returned to form with 28 against Appleton, including the game-winning 2-pointer.

Balanced Attack
Although no other player hit in the high double figures, the Rockets had a nicely balanced attack with all six of the other players employed by Coach Ole Jorgensen getting six or more points.

The game will be only Neenah's second home league affair. The Rockets have won all three of their starts before the home town fans, besting Fond du Lac, Wisconsin Rapids and Clintonville.

Two Rivers copped both of last year's meetings by 68-55 and 78-50 decisions.

Second Place Quints Vie on Indians Court

Menasha — Menasha, the only Twin City club which didn't have a game during the holiday vacation, returns to the Mid-Eastern conference wars with a contest against highly-regarded Shawano on the latter's court Friday night.

The Jays have been idle since Dec. 18 when they recorded a 53-34 triumph over New London. Currently they have a 3-1 Mid-Eastern conference mark and an overall 4-3 slate.

Menasha and Shawano get the nod as being the two most improved teams in the league. They are tied with Kaukauna for second place. Two of Menasha's wins were over Neenah and Two Rivers, both of which had won all of their games going into conference play.

Shawano only scored 39 points in its opening game against Antigo but most of the time since then has been on a scoring rampage. It hit 68 in beating Oconto, dipped to 53 in bowing to Two Rivers by 11 but scored 75 or more in the last four games and 80 or more in the last three.

Big wheel in the Shawano attack has been 6-5 center Ron points by Kaukauna in the last start, Neenah's Jack Anderson returned to form with 28 against Appleton, including the game-winning 2-pointer.

Balanced Attack
Although no other player hit in the high double figures, the Rockets had a nicely balanced attack with all six of the other players employed by Coach Ole Jorgensen getting six or more points.

The game will be only Neenah's second home league affair. The Rockets have won all three of their starts before the home town fans, besting Fond du Lac, Wisconsin Rapids and Clintonville.

Two Rivers copped both of last year's meetings by 68-55 and 78-50 decisions.

Menasha League
Menasha — Unbeaten St. Mary (7-0) plays Gilbert Paper (1-6) in the Menasha Church - Industrial Basketball league at 7:30 p.m. tonight at the Roosevelt gym.

Trinity Lutheran and Central Paper, both with 3-5, meet at 8:30 and Strange's (0-8) and Banta No. 1 (4-4) play at 9:30.

Hoppe, who has a pair of 30-point efforts and is tied for second place in the Mid-Eastern conference scoring race, trailing the Jays' Dave Ristau by four points.

Hoppe has been getting good support from Steve Heller, Bill Krenger and Guy Booth. Booth was a regular last year, Krenger, a letterman, and Heller, a member of the Jayvees.

Although the Jays didn't meet any opponents during the holidays they held regular practice sessions and hope to do a repeat of last year's upset win.

The Menashans, who need only one more win to match last year's league victory production, surprised the Indians 50-48 on Shawano's court after losing a 52-47 decision in the game here.

Coach Lucian Gajewski is expected to start the lineup which has opened every game. That will have Dave Ristau at center, Bill Ritchie and Bill Prange at forwards and Jay Drzewiecki and Jim Stenson, guards.

2 Towns Seek Right to Set Boat Speed Law

Want to Impose Rules According to Local Conditions

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Assemblyman Richard Peterson of Waupaca county Tuesday won the promise of the assembly Democratic majority leadership for quick action next week on legislation to assure two towns in Waupaca county the right to regulate motor boat speeds on the famed chain of lakes in the county.

Peterson told the legislature that residents of the resort area are concerned about a threat of state conservation department enforcement of a 15-mile-an-hour speed on the lakes as provided in the new state boating act, against the wishes of the boaters, the resort interests, and local public officials.

Local Ordinances

The towns of Dayton and Farmington have local boating ordinances with an effective local enforcement patrol and want to impose rules for speed of boats according to local conditions and needs, he explained.

Peterson asked for the repeal of the special state law applying to the Waupaca lakes chain, and said that under the law as now written, if it is enforced, the water ski tournaments and other exhibitions in the resort region will be impossible.

He said the resort community and its visitors have invested at least a quarter of a million dollars in power boats, most of which will be useless under the proposed controls.

Own Traffic Rules

The indications were that the repeal bill will be enacted and that the two town boards will be enabled to continue to make their own lake traffic rules.

(Actually, the state law has provided a 15 mile an hour speed rule for the Waupaca chain since 1941, but because the conservation department was not given specific enforcement authority and was short of enforcement manpower, it was a dead letter. Under the new boating act the department is given explicit enforcement responsibility and it is organizing an enforcement patrol. The prospect of enforcement has caused great concern in the Waupaca resort community, said Peterson, which feels competent to make reasonable safety rules at its own initiative.)

The shareholders will be asked to authorize the officers of the corporation to issue shares under the plan without first offering such shares to the shareholders of the corporation.

The directors whose terms expire are Maurice Ashenbrenner, president; George E. Malinckrodt, chairman of the board, and William Van N. Washburn.

The organizational meeting of the board of directors will follow adjournment of the shareholders.

best in the state and continues to grow.

Vice chairman John T. Heigl, Neenah, told the board to forget about moving the welfare department out of the courthouse, insisting ample room would remain for the law library after the one room was given over to the welfare department.

Some supervisors questioned whether the additional room would satisfy the welfare department's needs or whether in a few more years more room might be needed.

Henry A. Jankowski, Menasha, told the supervisors that L. J. Howman, county welfare director, had assured him that the space created from the law library would take care of the department's needs for 10 years.

Many supervisors objected to transferring from the general fund the $20,000 necessary to convert the room to the welfare department's use.

Supv. John Wallace, Jr., Oshkosh, chairman of the welfare committee, reiterating the importance of an efficient welfare department, said the building committee "goofed" in not including the $20,000 in the 1960 budget.

Answering objectors the proposal on the grounds that the courthouse would be torn up by the addition of permanent cubicles, Wallace said his committee did not advocate permanent walls but wanted movable partitions which would extend from floor to ceiling.

Rickey Favors 'Continental' Player Pool

President Makes Sales Pitch in Minneapolis-St. Paul

Minneapolis, Minn. — (U) — Branch Rickey is gambling on another revolutionary baseball move—a common player pool aimed at equalizing team strengths — to put the new Continental league in business.

It would mean the virtual rejection of individual team farm systems that Rickey himself pioneered when he ran the St. Louis Cardinals. The 79-year-old president of the proposed third major league detailed the plan Wednesday as part of a personal sales campaign to beef up enthusiasm for the Continental in Minneapolis-St. Paul, a territory still smitten by the hope of acquiring an existing major league franchise.

"Fastest Way" "I don't think the Washington Senators ever will come in here," he told Twin Cities via a news conference. "I admit obtaining an existing National or American league franchise is the fastest way to get into the big leagues."

But, he said, if Minneapolis-St. Paul does decide to hold out for an American league franchise shift, it might be getting a team "that would stay in the cellar indefinitely." The Twin Cities have a Continental franchise.

Rickey and Continental league backers are planning not only a player pool but also a pool of all television, radio and exhibition receipts that would provide for player pensions and meet other common expenses.

The idea, he said, is to prevent wealth from dominating the game. He described current bidding by the major leagues for untold talent as "ruinous."

Staff of Scouts Under the Continental plan, the league would maintain a staff of scouts who would provide league headquarters with the names of prospects. These would be placed in a pool, subject to three-year drafts by all teams on the basis of a draw.

Into it also would go players made available by the American and National League under agreements Rickey hopes to arrange. He wants the Continental to have a crack at players not retained by the American and National leagues on their lists of 40 active players.

He also wants the existing majors to liberalize draft policies as another means of providing the Continental with talent.

Rickey said he hoped the Continental would be permitted to go into operation without the need for congressional action. But he made it clear it would seek other action "if I am convinced there is a deliberate attempt to wreck this league."

27 State Prep Quints Are Unbeaten

Madison — (U) — Cedar Grove with a 10-0 record in basketball this season heads a list of 27 undefeated Wisconsin High School teams.

The Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association rating committee has compiled the records. It will start rating the teams next week in Big and Little 16 Classifications. The WIAA ratings will be made for nine weeks preceding tournament play.

La Crosse Central and Whitewater boast 9-0 records. Both are in the Big 16 class, which includes schools with enrollments of 300 or more.

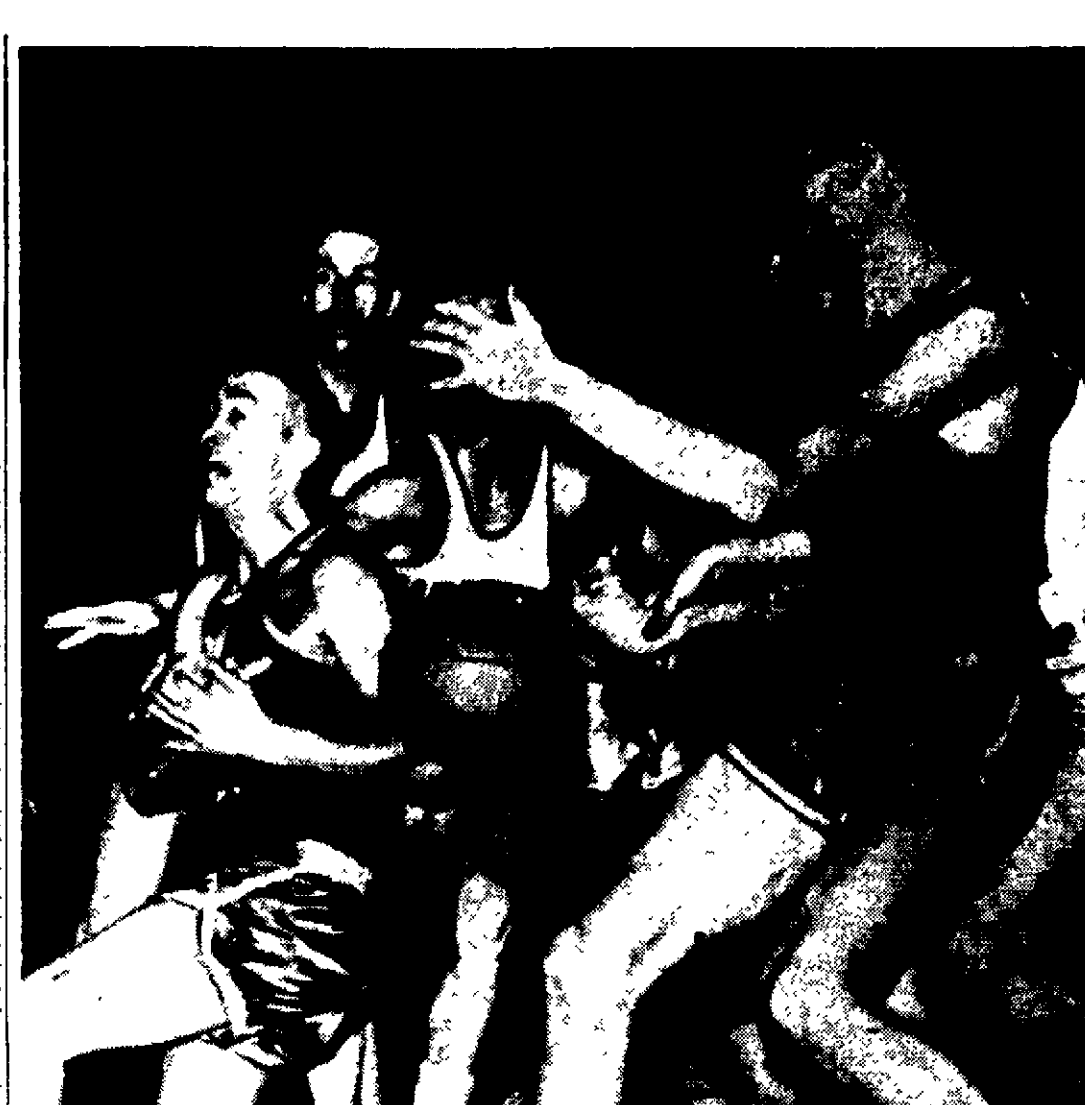

Other undefeated Big 16 teams are Darlington and Milwaukee Lincoln, 8-0; Mayville and Salem Central, 7-0; Beaver Dam, Middleton, Racine Horlick and Waukesha, 6-0; and Thorp, 5-0.

Little Sixteen teams with unblemished records in addition to Cedar Grove are Prentice, 8-0; Black Earth, Brussels, Cornell, Holmen and Prairie Farm, 7-0; Campbell, sport, Gresham, Oostburg, Osceola, Randolph, Sun Prairie, Wautoma, and Wonewoc, 6-0; and Patch Grove, 5-0.

Waller Signs 2-Year Contract With Rams

Los Angeles — (U) — Ron Waller, former Los Angeles Rams halfback, is signed up for two years with the Los Angeles Chargers of the American Football league. His Ram contract expired last season and the former University of Maryland star signed with the Chargers Wednesday as a free agent.

Pro Basketball By The Associated Press Wednesday's Results Cincinnati 129, New York 113. Philadelphia 121, St. Louis 101. Tonight's Schedule Detroit vs. Philadelphia at Syracuse. Cincinnati at Syracuse.

Kojis, Mangham Pace MU To Easy Win Over Knights

98-64 Victory Extends Home Streak to 22

Milwaukee — (U) — Marquette's two big guns, Walt Mangham and Don Kojis, went on a scoring spurge Wednesday night to lead the Warriors to a 98-64 victory over St. Norbert college's basketball team.

Kojis scored 28 points to take top honors, while Mangham contributed 27 as the Warriors had little trouble running up their eighth victory in 11 starts.

Pressing Defense The Green Knights stayed fairly close in the early stages using a pressing defense that bothered Marquette. At one stage, the Warriors led by only four points, 25-21. Marquette then got 20 points while holding the Knights to eight and from that time on had things its own way. The Warriors led at halftime, 45-29.

Marquette got its fast break operating smoothly in the second half and at one stage held a lead of 81-51. Coach Eddie Hickey then began using his reserve.

The victory was the twenty-second straight for Marquette at home. The Warriors play in the arena again Saturday, meeting Louisville.

Bill Feller led St. Norbert scoring with 21 points.

St. Norbert — 64 Marquette — 98

Obviously, no one factor could explain the immensity of the beating, but I couldn't help feeling that Coach Milt Bruhn was a little too easily satisfied in pre-game preparations. After about the third practice session, he declared the Badgers were ready for the game. Unlike Coach Jim Owens—who was constantly dissatisfied with his drills (at least in public print)—Bruhn seemingly could find no room for improvement and consequently no reason for "jacking up" his players. He did indicate that the second team wasn't doing too well at times, but there was little or nothing about the first unit. Though attitude was only one of the factors involved in producing the shocking result, it seems there's a lesson here somewhere for athletic teams preparing for future events. From all reports, Washington's approach to the big game was the more businesslike, dedicated and uncompromising.

No more will Green Bay's 3-I league entry be known as the Bluejays. The new regime, headed by Bob Conrad, has decided to re-label the club the Dodgers. Two other 3-I clubs—the Topeka Reds and the Cedar Rapids Braves—are also named for their major league parents.

The Umpire Vic Delmore who has just drawn his pink slip from National League President Warren Giles, is the same "Deacon" who once pitched for Green Bay in the Wisconsin State league. Giles' reason for the ouster, in case you missed it, was that "Delmore did not have sufficient ability to continue as a major league umpire." If Delmore actually doesn't measure up to big league standards, as the prey claims, it strikes me as mighty odd that it has taken Giles four long years to find it out. Prior to his 4-season NL stint, Delmore umpired for 11 years in the minors.

Three of the top minor league awards for 1959 went to men who are or have been prominent in Three-I league affairs. The respective "manager of the year" and "player of the year" were Pete Reiser and Frank Howard, prominent 1958 Green Bay Bluejays. And the minors' executive of the year (lower classification) was Clay Dennis, Des Moines business manager.

Bonduel's Jerry Senzig is not yet sure if he'll give pro baseball another try in 1960. The catcher-first baseman suffered a leg injury in 1959 which squelched his chance of playing with Eau Claire, a Milwaukee Braves' farm in the Class C Northern league. On the basis of Coach Don Boya is very plain-spoken about this weekend's assignment for his Lawrence college basketball team.

"This is do-or-die, or very close to it, for us," observed the stumpy little skipper about the Vikings' home games with Carleton and St. Olaf.

"If we can't defeat these two clubs on our home floor, I don't know who we will beat. With Ripon, (already defeated by Lawrence) these are two Midwest conference teams which are in our class, or near it," Boya asserts.

"You Can't Lead" Carleton, which appears to be the stronger of the two, invades Friday, while a sophomore-studded St. Olaf quintet is here Saturday. Game time both evenings is 7:30.

Although his blue and white came within seven points of beating a good (6-3) Stevens Point outfit Tuesday, Boya was not happy with Lawrence's showing.

Green Bay — Remember Randy Duncan? The Iowa All-America was the Packers' first draft choice a year ago.

On the premise that he wanted to play only two years anyway, Duncan then passed up a shot with Green Bay in favor of Canadian football at Vancouver.

Bay. He spoke before the Des Moines Basketball Writers' Association.

Rote Signs Toronto Contract For Record $23,000 a Year

Toronto — (U) — The Toronto Argonauts today have in Tobin Rote the player they hope will boost their football fortunes, but they had to pay a price never matched since Canadian pro teams began a spending spree 12 years ago.

Rote quarterbacked in the National Football league for 10 years (with Green Bay and Detroit). He played out his option with the Lions in 1959 and became a free agent when the club refused him a no-release contract for 1960.

His price was a reported $23,000 a season and what amounts to a 2-year, no-trade contract. The pact, made after two days of negotiations, was announced Wednesday.

Rote, 32 this month, actually signed two contracts—one for 1960, the other for 1961. Although no salary terms were disclosed officially, he indicated it was at least as much as the $23,000 Detroit paid him last season.

This would be $1,000 more than the reported $22,000—the highest previous salary for a player in Canadian football—which quarterback George Ratterman got to play for the Montreal Alouettes in 1951.

And the mighty Sooners, three times national champions under the genius of football coach and athletic director "Bud" Wilkinson, are practically powerless to do anything about the stiff penalties imposed Wednesday.

Under the terms of the probation, Oklahoma cannot participate in any post-season football games and cannot accept any NCAA-controlled TV programs. No other sport is involved.

Possible Berth This will cost the university, perennial Big Eight football champion, a possible berth in the Orange bowl and its share of the $209,000 which participating teams in a nationally televised regular-season game now receive.

Although the Sooners finished with a 7-3 record in 1959, they still won the Big Eight title and are automatic Seranton, Pa. — (U) — The American Legion's District 11 plans to send a resolution to National League President Warren Giles asking him to reinstate Umpire Vic Delmore of nearby Dunmore, Pa.

Giles dismissed Delmore recently, saying he did not have the right temperament for the job.

Among other things, the Legion resolution said Delmore "has demonstrated ability, honesty and fairness."

North Will Invade AHS Floor Friday

FOX RIVER VALLEY CONFERENCE

Friday Night's Schedule: North at Appleton. Manitowish at Central. West at Oshkosh. Fond du Lac at East.

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Memo to Charley "Bump" Jones, Sheboygan North High school coach.

Contrary to expectations, your sixth-place Raider basketball team commands as much respect and inspires as much intensive preparation at Appleton High as such power-packed Fox River Valley conference aggregations as Sheboygan Central and Green Bay West.

Underdog's Bite Sharp There's good reason for AHS wariness. The Terrors, who haven't made a deposit in their victory bank in nearly four weeks, know better than most title contenders how sharp an underdog's bite can be.

Friday night's game here will mark the third time AHS carries the favorite's mantle since its upset victory at Manitowish Dec. 11. In each of the previous two cases, favoritism meant nothing—the Terrors losing, 45-43, to Fond du Lac and bowing, 72 - 71, to Neenah.

Each of the other three games on Friday's attractive FRVC card also features one or two title threats. Top billing goes to the Manitowish - at - Central clash. West takes on title-favored but still winless Oshkosh, for whom victory is a greater "must" than for any other contender. Surprising Fond du Lac plays at winless East.

If for no other reason, North rates as a foe to be respected because it dealt Fondy's Cardinals their only league loss, 48-45.

North has started slowly (1-5, overall), as expected, since Rob Garton was the only returning regular or letterman. But, the Raiders, well stocked with members of last season's championship junior varsity team, could, with this added experience, become a "going concern" any week now.

Huibregtse Tops Scorers Improving with every game are such potential stars as Charlie Huibregtse, who is averaging 11 points per conference game, and 6-foot-4 Wally Graumann, who has a 9.7 average. Others in the regular cast include "Chuck" Green and Tom Siebert, who

Mormons Ban Fieldhouse for Fight Site

Mention Milwaukee As Possibility for Fullmer-Basilio Bout

Salt Lake City — (U) — Boxing promoters started looking for another site today for a proposed Gene Fullmer-Carmen Basilio middleweight championship bout.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) refused Wednesday to give permission for the fight to be held at the Brigham Young University fieldhouse in Provo, Utah, 40 miles south of here. The fieldhouse seats more than 11,000.

Fullmer's manager, Marv Jensen, said the bout would have to be staged out of state. The most likely sites, he said, were Denver, San Francisco, Milwaukee or Miami.

Held in April Jensen said he hopes the bout can be held in April. Fullmer won the National Boxing association middleweight title by stopping Basilio in the fourteenth round last August at San Francisco.

A statement by the LDS church board of trustees said "the traditional policy of the church school system has been that its facilities are not available for professional prize fights."

Fullmer, who lives in near-by West Jordan, Utah, is an elder and Sunday school teacher in the LDS church.

Terrors Meet North Friday

Sparked the upset win over Fondy with 12 points apiece.

North's FRVC losses have been to West and Central, while its non-league conquerors were Kaukauna, Two Rivers and South Milwaukee.

Appleton, which has a 4-3 over-all mark, goes into the game with the second best defensive record in the league. Only Fondy, early-season zone expert, is better to date — with a 47.7 standard compared with 45.7 for AHS. None of the Terrors' three conference foes has gotten out of the 40s, pointwise.

Non-conference Neenah, however, succeeded in shattering the AHS defenses last Saturday — particularly in the closing minutes.

That game was offensively encouraging for the Terrors. The 71 points represents their fattest total since the 72 of the triple-overtime season-opener at Kimberly.

AHS' Ron Abel ranks as the league's third top scorer, with a current 21-point average.

Injures Ankle Marty Schultz, the second-ranking Terror scorer in FRVC play (6-3 average) sustained an ankle injury in Wednesday's warm-up drill. He probably will be able to play Friday, but if he does not start, it will be Harold Lodholz and Paul Vanderheyden in the forecourt with Abel.

At the guards will be Dave LaViolette and either John Nussbaum or Pete Treiber. Nussbaum's recuperating knee suffered no ill effects in the game against Neenah — which was Nussbaum's debut for 1959-60. But, Nussbaum still isn't ready for full-time duty, and Coach Dick Emanuel plans to bring him along slowly.

Nussbaum will be making his first appearance of the season in FRVC play. In 1958-9, he was the league's second best scorer (with an 18.9 point average) and won an all-conference berth. Against North, Nussbaum scored 19 points in a 54-48 home court win and 25 in a 65-55 "away" loss.

The AHS varsity is currently smaller by four players. Emanuel announced that John Falcus had dropped from the squad and that John Manior, Tom Lonigro and Mike Lee have been moved to the junior varsity. The trio not only will have a chance to see considerably more action with the JV's but will give a much-needed lift to Coach John Graff's undermanned unit.

Tokyo — Kenji Yonekura, 118, Japan, outpointed Leo Espinosa, 118, Philippines, 12-10 for Orient bantamweight title.

The Oles dispatched Lawrence, 82-68, and 82-56, last season. Bob Gelle is head coach.

2 Champs Defend Titles in UW Contenders Meet

Madison — (U) — Two champions will defend their titles in the annual University of Wisconsin contenders boxing tournament Friday.

Howard McCaffery of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., will defend his 139-pound title against Bernie Stein, of Pittsburgh. Bob Gottschalk of Falls Church, Va., will try to retain his crown in a match with Bob Starzel of New York in the 178-pound class.

Gonzalo Bello of Caracas, Venezuela, who won the 118-pound title last year, will be forced to move up one weight class to the 125 pound division because the lighter class has been abolished. He will meet Jim Mack of Madison.

were't going for loose balls and they were making simple mistakes. You can't loaf on defense or relax at any time the way basketball is being played today."

The play of only hustling soph forward Jim Jordan brought much twinkle to Boya's eyes, saddened by 24 losing seasons at Lawrence. Jordan snared 21 rebounds against good big men like Sam Antcliffe and Tom Gurtel and he tallied 15 points.

"But he was relaxing some of the time, too," Boya remarked.

Fine Start Jordan, 6-2, Glen Ellyn, Ill., sophomore, is off to a fine varsity start, averaging over 10 points a game in his first seven tilts.

He, Jim Rasmussen and Joe Lamers will again be in the front line at the start of Friday's affair. Rasmussen took a bad spill in practice Monday, injuring a leg, and he favored it against the Pointers.

He not only had one of his poorest scoring nights with seven points, but he wasn't rebounding or defending too effectively. But, Boya's chief forecourt reserves—6-3 Marty Gradman and 6-5 John Van Meter—haven't yet hit their stride in competition.

Steady Performance Lamers, who is averaging eight points a game, is a steady performer who makes up for his lack of great finesse with scrap.

In the back line again it will be "Chuck" Knoke, one of the conference's top scorers, and Jim Schulze. Strangely, the only game Lawrence won (at Ripon) was the only one in which Knoke didn't lead his team in scoring.

George Gray, a sensation on last year's freshman team who has been a disappointment thus far, is Boya's No. 6 man. Gray scored 20 points in the loss to Grinnell and only 24 in the five games since. A youth with exceptional basketball talents, he has seemed to lack confidence and fire to date.

The "big" gate attraction this weekend is Carleton's 6-8 senior Ivan Grimm, defending MC scoring champion.

Walked In Ivan walked away with the point crown in 1958-9 (he scored 55 in the two games with Lawrence) but he's getting a stiff argument from Cornell's Ron Altenberg this time. Grimm's got a great touch from inside and on the free throw line.

Carleton (3-5 ove.all) has good size. Senior Steve Strutar (6-2) who averaged 20 a game against Lawrence last year and finished eighth in MC pointmaking, will start at one forward and 6-3 soph Don Cooper at the other.

The guards will be 6-3 junior Jim Bacon and 5-8 senior Phil Pennell. Former Purdue university head coach, Mel Taube, is the pilot. The Knights edged Lawrence, 75-74, in overtime, and 70-61 last year.

St. Olaf (4-5) may start at least four sophomores Saturday night.

Captain George Miner, 6-1 senior, suffered a bad ankle sprain in a holiday tournament last week and possibly won't make the trip. Likely soph starters include: Karl Groth, (6-3) who is averaging 21 points in circuit starts; Dave Hindermann, 6-4 center who played end on the Ole grid team; and guards Merle Olson (6-1) and "Chuck" Skarshaug (5-10).

The Oles dispatched Lawrence, 82-68, and 82-56, last season. Bob Gelle is head coach.

Senate Rose Bowl Unit Maintains Strict Silence

Madison — (U) — The Wisconsin senate heard some non-political football talk Wednesday.

Sen. James Brennan, a Milwaukee Democrat and brother of former Notre Dame grid Coach Terry Brennan, kicked it off.

"I wonder if we could have a report from the Rose Bowl committee," the senator asked jokingly when the chair called for new business.

The request brought a round of laughter.

Sen. William Trinke (R-Lake Geneva), Allen Busby (R-Milwaukee) and Gerald Lorge (R-Bear Creek), who officially represented the state senate at the New Year's day football rout of Wisconsin, kept mum. The Badgers were beaten, 44-8, by Washington.

Although the first qualifying test began this morning, each member of the field rolled two games Wednesday night in a preview of the championships in the Municipal auditorium.

The defending champions were conspicuous by their feeble performances. Billy Welu, St. Louis, mustered an embarrassing 167-187 - 354, and Marion Ladewig, Grand Rapids, a 7-time tourney winner, eked out 136-165-301.

choices to defend it successfully and win the Big Eight conference berth in the Orange bowl. They also have been a fixture on the nationally televised game-of-the-week series for years.

Million Dollar Effort

Ford Grant for Urban Research by UW Praised as Important to Future

Madison — A $1 million meeting in Madison Saturday, grant to the University of Wisconsin for the study of urban problems, announced by the Ford Foundation, was described by UW President Conrad A. Elvehjem as "a grant of fundamental importance to the university and its plans for the future."

"This grant provides an opportunity for the university to try the Wisconsin Idea in the cities as we have done for the past century on the farms," Pres. Elvehjem said. "We hope that basic and applied research into urban problems will provide results that can then be applied at the community level. We foresee, for example, the development of an urban agent system corresponding to the county agent system in translating research results into practical situations."

Major Problem

The Wisconsin president described urbanization as a major problem facing modern society, and said the university is ready to launch an effort to become a national center for study in the field. "We feel this grant, and others from a variety of sources in future years, will help us make a significant contribution," Elvehjem said.

The grant, announced in New York by Dyke Brown, a vice president of the Ford Foundation, is to be presented for acceptance by Wisconsin regents at their January meeting.

water supply and sewage problems. The educational phase of the program will include training of urban specialists at the undergraduate and graduate levels.

"Wisconsin is an ideal state for the locale of this program," he commented. "The state has retained its agricultural strength while building its urban and industrial strength."

Harrington emphasized that expansion of the university's efforts in urbanization will not diminish the outstanding work done in agriculture for more than a century.

Urban Research

"This will be an all-University program, involving faculty members in numerous departments at Madison, Milwaukee and around the state," he said.

"This represents a broadening on a large scale of our urban research effort, headed by Prof. Coleman Woodbury, director of urban research," Harrington said.

He pointed out that the program had been growing since a 1957 grant of $100,000 from the Brittingham Trust. The 1957 grant led to appointment of Prof. Woodbury, one of the nation's leading specialists in urban research. He is director of the UW Urban Research Center, which conducts projects in Madison and Milwaukee. Another expert, Prof. Henry Schmandt, was appointed in 1959 to head up UW-Milwaukee urban research and to serve as associate director of the center.

Fall of 1960

Vice President Harrington said, "we'll spend the first few months designing the program so that the work can get rolling in the fall of 1960."

While no specific details have been decided, Harrington indicated that the Milwaukee metropolitan area and at least two other areas, not selected as yet, will be studied intensively.

"We hope to set up a research and extension pattern that will permit simultaneous operations in Milwaukee, another urban area with smaller population, and a rural area," he said.

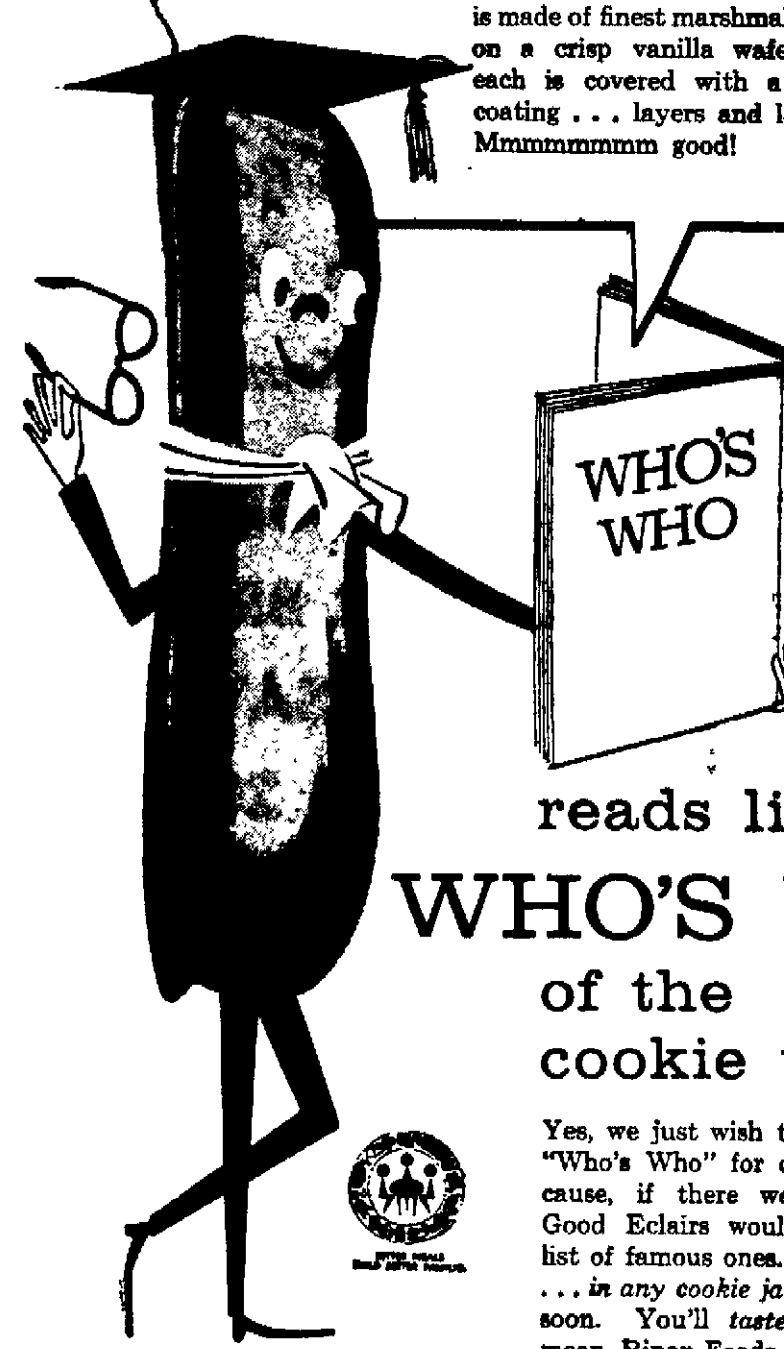

Harrington said the program will involve study of such subjects as urban design, urban finance, urban history, redevelopment and zoning.

Zone Change Request Buried in Report, Ald. Roy Pointer Charges

The city planning commission was accused of burying a zone change request for 50 acres on new Highway 41 and N. Meade street by Ald. Roy Pointer at Wednesday's council meeting.

The commission asked permission to get an opinion on the rezoning from the regional planning commission. The 50 acres, owned by Harold Heckel, would be rezoned from an agricultural district to a commercial or light manufacturing district.

"I think that's just a way of burying it," said Pointer. Ald. Kenneth Priebe justified the commission's action saying, "There was a feeling we should wait and ask the regional planners."

Pointer retorted: "I see very little done at regional planning meetings, and I think that's what will be done with this request."

Priebe said the owner would be willing to wait a couple of months for the rezoning. On questioning by Ald. Tucker, he added he would not necessarily approve the planning commission report but "would consider it seriously. It would have its merits," he said.

Sealer's Resignation
The resignation of Royal C. Hume, sealer of weights and measures for 17 years, was accepted, effective April 1. The council ordered the city clerk to advertise for applications for the position, which requires a state examination.

Purdue Seminar
The industrial planning committee was given permission to attend a planning seminar at Purdue university, West Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 13 to 15, at city expense.

Ald. Mrs. Stillings, a member of the committee, suggested that since "this is the first time we have authorized anyone to attend a university seminar, I would not object to having someone file a report on it with the council. Those people who attend might also conduct a seminar for the rest of the aldermen so we all might share in what was learned at Purdue."

Mrs. Stillings indicated she does not plan to attend the seminar.

Wastes Conference
Director of Public Works Duszynski and Robert Thompson, sewage treatment plant operator, were authorized to attend at city expense a University of Wisconsin conference on industrial wastes, Jan. 12 and 13.

Investments
Two U. S. treasury bills investments totaling $1,300,000 were confirmed. One dated Nov. 18, cost $488,160; the second, dated Dec. 31, cost $780,808.22.

License Tests

To Joseph Doerfler for an 11-acre park on Taft avenue, $14,851 total cost.

To the Walter Neumann estate for an 18.15-acre addition to the industrial park on Perkins street, $31,762.50 total cost.

To Christian Vanden Heuvel for a 11.92-acre northside elementary school site on N. Mason street, $24,975 total cost.

Share Prices Move Lower
Traders Continue To be Concerned Over Interest Rates

New York — The stock market declined again today, taking a fairly sharp loss as Wall Street continued to worry about stiffer interest rates. Trading was fairly active early in this afternoon.

Pivotal issues declined from fractions to more than 2 points for U. S. Steel.

Among "glamor" stocks the losses were worse, Texas Instruments falling more than 7.

Brokers said the market seemed to be starting another string of "nervous Thursdays," based on the fact that the Federal Reserve Board usually meets on that day and a boost in the discount rate is feared.

This was prompted by the hike in rates for brokers loans, which depressed Wednesday's market, and the fear that other categories of interest rates would be raised also.

Steels, big three autos, electronics, oils, rails, utilities and electrical equipments joined in the downswing.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down $1.00 to $231.10 with the industrials off $1.90, the rails off 40 cents and the utilities down 30 cents.

Corporate bonds were firm.

Several Escape Injury as Train Window Shatters

Approximately 20 passengers on a Chicago and North Western "400" from Chicago Wednesday night escaped serious injury when one of the double windows in their coach shattered and glass fragments flew into the car.

At least two of the passengers were from Appleton. They are Mrs. Jerome Cayen and Mrs. Robert W. Sikora.

Railroad officials have not determined the cause of the accident, but said the window was shattered to such an extent it seems doubtful a bullet could have broken it.

The accident took place above five miles out of Chicago at approximately 4:20 p.m. Mrs. Sikora said some of the passengers received small face cuts.

The car was vacated. Railroad officials on board at time of the accident said they suspect vandals broke the window from outside the train.

Coated Paper Picks Advertising Agency

The Appleton Coated Paper company has appointed Jack C. Wemple Advertising of Green Bay to handle advertising for its line of coated papers for the printing industry as well as its coated paper specialties which the Wemple company has handled for the last four years.

The appointment became effective Jan. 1.

Forfeits Bond
Frank G. Lichtfuss, 28, of 1241 E. Amelia street, forfeited $28.95 bond and was charged six points against his driving record in municipal court on a school zone speeding charge.

Car Stolen
Sherry Motors, Inc., 235 W. Washington street, reported to police Wednesday that a 1959 blue Ford has been missing from its used car lot since Monday and is believed stolen.

by George Vanden Heuvel and fronting on Perkins street, consisting of 1.75 acres, will cost about $11,000.

A 61-acre plot north and west of the Vanden Heuvel property, owned by Roland Abitz, will cost about $92,000. Director of Public Works Duszynski has estimated it will cost $63,000 to extend sewer service to the property.

Insurance Renewed

The boiler and maintenance insurance policy issued by the Koffund - Stack Insurance agency through the Appleton Association of Insurance Agents was renewed for three years, beginning Jan. 7, for $2,051.85.

Tax Protests

Tax protest blanks should be made more readily available to people who want them, Mrs. Stillings told Treas. Ray L. Feuerstein. She said several taxpayers had complained to her that they had been rebuffed when they asked for blanks.

Feuerstein replied that blanks had been given to everyone who requested them and that no one had been rebuffed.

Parking Bans

Parking bans were approved for both sides of E. College avenue from the end of the bridge east to Walter avenue and on the east side of N. State street from Wisconsin avenue south to the Miller Drug store parking lot entrance.

Zone Changes

No one appeared to protest changing the industrial park zone from an agricultural district to a heavy industrial district and rezoning most of the Westview plat into residential areas, including single family, 2-family and multiple-family zones. The plat is on the far northwest side and has not yet been approved by the planning commission. The changes were ordered made.

License Transfer

The tavern license of Carl Ziesemer, owner of Carl's Tap, 523 W. College avenue, was transferred from 333 W. College avenue. Club 333 now is operated by Ernest Kasten, who was granted a new license last month.

Carl Smith, owner of the former Eight Fingers Bar, 523 W. College avenue, canceled his license after he sold out to Ziesemer.

Mead O'Gara

William O'Gara will succeed Mead as production manager of Wisconsin Rapids division, it has been announced by L. W. Murtfeldt, division manager.

Mead has served as production manager since 1956. A graduate of Yale university, he received a master of science degree from the Institute of Paper-Chemistry in 1952. He joined the company the same year as a chemist and later served as assistant production manager.

North Part Of State Gets Snow

Traces of snow fell in the Fox Cities early today as temperatures rose to 33, highest since last Saturday. Snow is expected to fall during the next few days.

The nation's weather showed marked improvement today, with temperatures moderating in most of the northern cold belt and snow ending in southern areas. But snow began falling in quantity in northern Wisconsin today.

Three to five inches fell in the Rhinelander region and it was still snowing there at mid-morning. Freezing rain fell south of a line from Du- buque, Iowa, to Sheboygan.

Driving in some areas of the state is hazardous because of snow and freezing rain, the state highway patrol said. Areas escaping the new snow and rain had good winter driving conditions.

Zoning Requests Returned to Plan Commission

One rezoning request was sent back to the planning commission and another was received from Walter avenue residents at the city council meeting Wednesday.

Ald. Kenneth Loos asked further study on two opposing petitions for rezoning the west side of the 1100 and 1200 blocks on N. Richmond street from a 2-family zone to a commercial or light manufacturing zone.

Six signatures appeared on both petitions he said, requiring further study.

Two other petitions from landowners along Walter avenue between Harriet and Gunn streets requested rezoning from a single family zone to a commercial or light manufacturing zone. Thirteen abutting property owners also requested the change.

New Brown County UW Center Proposed

Education Committee Requests Study Building Possibility by Board

Green Bay — Construction of a new University of Wisconsin extension center by Brown county and appointment of a special committee to study the requirements of the new building were recommended by the education committee of the county board Wednesday night.

The resolution will be presented to the county finance committee at its next meeting, Jan. 18, and to the county board, at its Jan. 19 session.

The committee would suggest possible sites for the new center, determine the building's approximate needs and costs and recommend architectural services.

It would work in cooperation with the University of Wisconsin and would report its findings and recommendations to Irvin Van Beek's education committee.

Three rural members of the special committee would be appointed by Humes Francois, chairman of the county board. Three other members would be appointed by Mayor Roman Denissen. Denissen and Francois also would serve on the board.

The present Green Bay center cannot provide a full 3-year college program because of the lack of space and facilities. The temporary structure which houses the center is outmoded, overcrowded and unsuitable for long range use, the resolution says.

Building Site
Van Beek predicted that there would not be much opposition to building a new center, but that there would be many differences of opinion on where it will be built.

Some Green Bay councilmen want it on the West side, and others on the East side. The present location has been recommended, as Perkins park. Other suggestions have included county property adjacent to the arena. Van Beek said that his own town of Bellevue or the town of Al-louez would be ideal.

The education committee estimated cost of the proposed new center, which would have between 65,000 and 75,000 square feet, would be from $450,000 to $750,000 if built at a cost of $10 a square foot.

Yellow Cab Company Building Garage
A metal garage costing an estimated $8,000 is being constructed by Lloyd Doerfler, 209 N. Oneida street, owner of the Appleton Yellow Cab company. The 49 by 28-foot structure replaces a garage Doerfler moved several weeks ago and will be used as part of the cab company operation.

Returning Legislators Find No Audience, Boredom Rampant

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Members of the state's marathon legislature, listlessly returning to their desks after a holiday respite Wednesday, found something lacking as they resumed a session that apparently will be endless.

It was an audience. Lawmakers played to a virtually empty gallery. Old line observers could not remember when the legislative wing of the statehouse was as deserted — with respect to and went through their parliamentary chores listlessly. The deliberations of the two houses yesterday.

Dosing for Pay
Only the paid gallery attendants were present, most of them dozing. Legislators themselves seemed dispirited.

Rep. Byrnes Named Key Man By Magazine

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Rep. John Byrnes, of Green Bay, is named as one of 12 key men in the congressional sessions which open today, an article in this week's New York Times Magazine says.

Byrnes, who is 46, was the youngest congressman or senator included in the article and was described as one "regarded by many as the most promising young Republican in the house."

"As chairman of the house Republican policy committee, he has helped greatly to strengthen the president's hand with congress. A member of the ways and means committee since 1947, he is generally regarded as the Republicans' top authority on revenue and tax matters."

"His economic views are generally conservative fast in debate, he is adept at discovering and exploiting areas of compromise," the profile reported.

At various times about a dozen paid lobbyists turned up, watched for a few moments, and left again. They found nothing on the house calendars to interest them.

Silent Orators
The vacuum in which they found themselves appeared to affect the legislators, even the most loquacious among them.

Although the political parties are locked in a bitter stalemate and resentment is keen on both sides about the inability to end the long drawn out session, there was little disposition to orate. The few speeches were routine in content, desultory in tone.

The legislative corridors were saturated with rumors, all of them involving alleged proposals for compromise between the senate majority Republicans and the assembly majority Democrats — but few of them apparently had any substance.

Recess Likely
The temper of all members is such that an agreement for an adjournment or a recess appears likely, but the formula for the face-saving involved has not yet been evolved.

Because the state assembly left the capitol yesterday noon after a meeting of only about an hour and a half, the decision, whatever it may be, won't come until next Tuesday upon the return of the assemblymen, at the earliest.

Professor's Work Printed

Warren Beck Has Short Story, Two Essays Republished

Three pieces of writing by Warren Beck, professor of English at Lawrence college, have been chosen recently for reprinting in anthologies.

His story "The Blue Sash" has been included in an anthology titled "These Were Our Years," summarizing writing between the two world wars, edited by Frank Brookhouser, fictionist and Philadelphia newspaper columnist and published by Doubleday. "The Blue Sash" first appeared in Story magazine, was later reprinted in "The Best American Short Stories: 1939" and "The Best American Short Stories: 1945-50." It was also used as the title story for Beck's first published volume.

French Review
Two of his critical essays first published in 1941, have been included in translation in "Configuration Critique de William Faulkner," a collection of writings by French and American critics, forming a special number of "La Revue des Lettres Modernes," in Paris. The essays, "Faulkner and the South" first appeared in the Anti-och Review, and "Faulkner's Style" was seen in American Prefaces. The latter has also been reprinted in a book "William Faulkner: Two Decades of Criticism" edited by Frederick J. Hoffman and Olga Vickery.

Dr. Beck is on leave of absence for the first semester of the college year, doing research and writing in the east. He will spend January at Yaddo, a writer's colony in New York, before returning to the classroom next month.

Heart Drive Gets City Office Space

3 Heirs to Share $2,500,000 Estate

Madison — Mrs. George G. Thorp, widow of a retired steel company executive, left Norman E. Beyer, drive chairman, who said the room would be occupied immediately and be used until the first week in March. The office has been unused since the Xavier High school drive ended.

Mrs. Thorp died here Sunday. She was 79. Her husband died Jan. 10, 1953. He was a retired executive of the Illinois Steel Co. and subsidiary firms.

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The public service commission Wednesday rescinded previous approval of the sale of the Waupaca River Telephone company to the Weyauwega Telephone company and said it will hold a public hearing on the proposal.

The agency said the hearing is required because of the probability that the transaction will result in an increase in the charges to the subscribers of the Waupaca River company.
